ROYAL COACH LEAVES BUCKINGHAM PALACE

RADIANT PRINCESS AND HER FATHER

CELEBRATED BRIDE AND GROOM

(UPI Telephotos)

Princess Anne and Mark Are Wed

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Anne, smiling her happiness every step of the way to the altar, married Capt. Mark Phillips today in a ceremony that spread the joy of young love to thousands thronging the flag-bedecked streets of the capital and to millions watching by television.

The wedding was conducted by Dr. Michael Ramsey, Archbishop of Canterbury.

As the Princess walked down the royal blue carpet, laid the length of the abbey, on the arm of her father, the Duke of Edinburgh, her eyes were already searching ahead to the altar, where Capt. Phillips waited in the splendid dress uniform of the Queen's Dragoon Guards.

And his eyes sought hers. To keep from grinning with pride, he lowered his head and bit his lip.

Queen Elizabeth, watching her only daughter's happiness, wept the first tears anyone has ever seen her shed in public.

Queen Mother Elizabeth turned from smiling at the young couple and appeared startled to find her daughter, trained from cradle to throne to control her emotions, in tears.

She stared a few seconds at the Queen and then turned back to witness the end of the ceremony. The Queen, blinking, appeared to be lost in her own thoughts, more a mother than a Queen.

A glittering congregation of 1,500, including 23 members of foreign royalty, smiled at the scene at the altar, for it is rare that members of royal houses—or a tank commander for that matter—make open displays of affection.

The tall, blonde Princess never looked prettier nor dark-haired Mark more handsome. The bride, who broke tradition to have her gown made by a house better known for ready-made clothes, wore a "princess line" dress of specially woven white silk with a high neck and Elizabethan sleeves edged with pearls and mirror jewels.

Her transparent shoulder train of silk net was embroidered with floral sprays of silk and silver thread embellished with pearls and mirror jewels. It was held in place by a magnificent tiara — something borrowed—from the collection of the Queen Mother.

Mark wore a scarlet and gold tunic with blue velvet collar and cuffs, tight blue trousers with a white stripe down each leg, boots, spurs and a sword.

After the simple service the couple walked arm in arm between the rows of guests to the door of the abbey, chatting and smiling all the way.

No one could remember a royal bride acting this joyous way at her wedding.

A day that blazed a mile of pageantry from Buckingham Palace to the abbey brought tens of thousands of Britons into the sunny but chilly streets and took this nation's mind briefly off its energy and economic crisis—a state of emergency was declared Tuesday—opened with one of the most stirring sights left in the military world.

The Queen's bodyguard, swords drawn, breastplates and helmets gleaming, clattered their matched chargers into Buckingham Palace and trotted out again, escorting the Queen, Princes Charles, the heir to the throne—celebrating his 25th birthday today—and Prince Andrew.

Four carriages of British royalty followed her and then came Princess Anne, radiant and clutching her father's arm, in the romantically named Glass Coach, an equipage so loosely sprung the Queen urged her daughter to take seasickness pills.

Meanwhile the distinguished and other guests had been seated in a remarkable amalgam of the friendships of the House of Windsor and of the middle class Phillips family whose head, Peter Phillips, Mark's father, is a purchasing agent for a sausage firm.

There stood Princess Anne unable to contain herself, almost bouncing with excitement. She wore drop diamond earrings, her only jewelry other than the tiara.

And sewed into a petticoat was a small blue bow—something blue.

The Duke, wearing the uniform of a field marshal, took Anne's arm and began the journey to the altar to the music of the hymn "Glorious Things of Thee Are Spoken."

Behind Anne came her two attendants — her 9-year-old brother Prince Edward and 9-year-old cousin Lady Sarah Armstrong-Jones. At the altar with Mark was his best man, American-born Capt. Eric Grounds, 25, of the Dragoons.

Emergency Energy Bill in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., pushing for Senate action on the emergency energy bill, says he hopes the legislation will be passed by the weekend.

"Time is of the essence," Jackson said in asking senators to limit their amendments so the legislation can be approved this week.

"Every day we delay in settling the matter, the greater the shortfall," said Jackson, chairman of the Interior Committee.

Jackson commented as he drew up the schedule for today's debate on the emergency legislation.

While it will be at least three years before the controversial 789-mile Alaska pipeline can begin pumping oil from the North Slope fields toward the nation's depleted fuel tanks, the emergency energy bill could cut fuel consumption by 25 per cent within four weeks of enactment.

The Senate vote of 80 to 5 sent the pipeline measure to President Nixon.

Among other things, the Jackson bill would direct President Nixon to implement rationing programs for scarce fuels, including gasoline and home heating oil.

Before starting debate on the measure, the Senate was expected to pass and send to the White House a bill that would require mandatory allocation of all fuel products from crude oil to gasoline. Designed to ensure that all sections of the country share the burden of fuel shortages equally, the bill passed the House Tuesday by an overwhelming margin.

The Senate could also vote today on legislation mandating year-round daylight saving time, according to Commerce Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash. Both Senate and House Commerce Committees approved such legislation Tuesday.

In addition to rationing, the Jackson bill would lead to such energy-saving steps as reduced speed limits, lower thermostats and shorter school and business hours. In an effort to increase fuel supplies, the measure would allow the President to tap naval petroleum reserves and order oil and gas burning power plants to switch to coal.

The Senate Public Works Committee planned a closed meeting for today to consider amending the Clean Air Act to authorize the President to waive emissions standards designed to protect public health and safety. The amendment was offered by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, to permit the burning of high-sulphur coal and oil.

Another area of potential conflict between the nation's energy needs and the environment appeared on the horizon Tuesday when the administration revealed that it was abandoning its support of a proposal to place in reserve leases held by oil companies in California's Santa Barbara Channel.

A moratorium on development of the oil leases has been in effect since the massive 1969 oil spill, which caused extensive environmental damage to the Santa Barbara area.

Meanwhile, the Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. hopes to get a construction permit soon after President Nixon signs the Alaska pipeline bill into law.

U. S. Pacific Fleet forces facing oil, fuel shortage. Story, page 4.

Alyeska is a consortium of oil companies financing the $4.5 billion project that will carry hot oil in a 48-inch pipeline from Alaska's North Slope 789 miles to a tanker terminal on the Gulf of Alaska at Valdez.

The Senate approved the pipeline measure Tuesday on an 80-5 vote. The House voted 361 to 14 approval Monday. Backers say Nixon may sign the measure Friday.

Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, commented after the Senate vote:

"Those who opposed this project over the years ought to take their share of responsibility for the crisis this country is facing."

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., said: "No domestic program today has greater priority . . . than dealing with our deepening energy crisis."

One of the five senators who voted against it, Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del., said, "The need in this country for additional crude oil is beyond question, but I cannot go along with a bill that so clearly attacks one of our hard-won environmental statutes."

"We have a lot of hopes," said Robert Miller, an engineer with Alyeska. "We hope the President signs the bill before the end of the week and that the Department of Interior will issue a permit by the end of the year."

$5,000 Minimum Wage Proposed For All Employes of County

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Great news for the about 200 Ulster County employes, whose wages in some cases have been so low as to warrant the employes' inclusion on the welfare rolls, is just around the corner.

Ulster County's 1974 budget, which is to be made public late today, is expected to raise to a minimum of $5,000, every employe salary that currently falls below that level.

There is news, too, in the fact that all county employes' salaries will also be raised at least 5.5 per cent with some merit raises included as well as raises for the legislators themselves.

"There was absolutely no opposition from any of the legislators at a recent executive meeting on the budget concerning the raising of the minimum wage which in some cases dips as low as $3,613," according to Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago (R-Dist. 8), chairman of the Finance Committee which devised the budget.

Hoping that the increases for low salaried employes will help remove them from the welfare rolls and in turn save taxpayers money, Savago said the need for the increases was "critical . . . so we moved ahead." The chairman said his committee did not wait for the Civil Service Employes Association to come up with a salary schedule as they intended in their last contract with the county.

Clerk of the Legislature Edward W. Snyder told the Freeman that although the total budget figure was not final early today, it is expected to be increased over this year's $32.6 million gross for which the county had to raise $8.5 million in taxes.

Special

But, he explained, county taxes have been reduced in four out of the past six years with the county having raised its tax levy only $2 million since 1968. "That's quite a good record in view of rising costs, inflation and growth," he said.

About 100 of the 200 low salaried employes whose income is below $5,000 are members of the county's Social Services Department, according to Welfare Commissioner Bernhardt S. Kramer who said the public assistance department will be notified of the increased wages of the county employes on welfare in order to make adjustments. In some cases, he suggested, a few employes with large families will still be in need of assistance even with the wage increase.

Snyder explained that the 1974 budget increases will be mainly in the area of welfare costs which are reportedly up over $14 million. Other increases will be necessary as the result of increased costs of food, postage, electricity, gasoline, increased occupancy at the infirmary and new employes at the new jail and infirmary.

The legislature also plans to voluntarily increase its funding to the Ulster County Libraries raising the 1973 $20,000 amount to $30,000 next year and will give $20,000 additionally to the senior citizens of the county.

The raise for the chairman of the legislature will be from $8,738 to $10,500; for the majority leader from $4,660 to $5,500 and for the minority leader from $4,311 to $5,000.

For the remaining 30 legislators, who now receive $3,840 annually, their salaries will be increased to $4,000 each.

Regarding federal revenue sharing, Snyder said that $1,104,113 is anticipated in 1974 but that it may not be used to reduce taxes. The money will go toward capital improvements, he said.

Copies of the budget will be available at the Office of the Legislature in the County Office Building.

A public hearing on the budget will be held Tuesday, Nov. 20 at 7 p.m. in the legislative chambers.

ANOTHER KIND OF WEDDING—With all the efforts being made to conserve fuel, we might be heading back to the old days of horse and buggy. An example of those old days is Diane Murray of Attleboro, Mass. as she rides with her father to the church to get married. (UPI Telephoto)

Israel, Egypt to Exchange POWs

By United Press International

Israel and Egypt agreed today at a desert meeting to begin carrying out terms of the four-day-old cease-fire accord Thursday with a prisoner of war exchange to be followed by an Israeli turnover to the United Nations of checkpoints on the Suez-Cairo road.

The decisions at Kilometer 101 on the Cairo-Suez road followed a threat by Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir to cut off all supplies to the Egyptian 3rd Army if there was not an immediate POW exchange and a warning by the semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram that this would mean war.

UPI Correspondent Richard C. Gross, reporting from the meeting site 62 miles from Cairo, said Finnish Maj. Gen. Ensio Siilasvuo, commander of the U.N. Emergency Force, announced that implementation of the pact will begin Thursday.

The prisoner exchange will begin at 8 a.m. (1 a.m. EST) with the wounded of both sides to be flown in International Red Cross planes between Tel Aviv and Cairo, Siilasvuo said.

Following that, supplies will be moved to the Egyptian 3rd Army, whose 20,000 men are encircled on the east bank of the Suez Canal, by way of Cairo. Supplies also will be sent to civilians and troops in Suez City, also encircled by Israeli troops.

Maj. Gen. Aharon Yariv, the chief Israeli negotiator, worked out the agreement in a three-hour meeting with Egyptian Lt. Gen. Mohammed Gemassy in the same tent on the cease-fire line where they signed the six-point truce agreement Sunday.

Siilasvuo said the agerement covered points three, four, five and six of the truce formula worked out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Rudolf Studjuhar, A U.N. spokesman based in Cairo, said the Egyptians handed over a list of Israeli war prisoners to the Israeli negotiators.

Shortly before the meeting, U.N. forces at Kilometer 119 tried to set up a blue U.N. flag at a site off the road, but Israeli soldiers, pushing and shoving, prevented its erection. On Monday Israeli and Finnish soldiers staged fistfights over the issue.

A U.N. spokesman said after the meeting the Israelis had agreed to allow the U.N. forces to establish a checkpoint at Kilometer 119. He said a third checkpoint also will be established.

Before today's agreement Egypt accused Israel of failing to discharge its obligations under the cease-fire stabilization agreement and said the Cairo government is examining the situation arising from this.

The meeting took place against a Cairo press outcry against Israeli refusal to go along with the terms of the Sunday agreement.

Reports from U.N. headquarters in New York said Secretary General Kurt Waldheim had dispatched Roberto Guyer of Argentina, his chief aide for peace keeping operations, to the Middle East to help implement the agreement.

Concerned Over Diminishing Energy Reserves

Farm Bureau Wants Environmental Controls Relaxed

KERHONKSON — The New York State Farm Bureau, meeting for its annual statewide conference at the Granit Hotel in Kerhonkson, has urged that environmental controls be relaxed, if necessary, to replenish diminishing energy reserves.

The farm bureau delegates approved a resolution Tuesday expressing "concern" that environmental problems take precedence over providing adequate energy supplies. The delegates said, in effect, that they favor environmental improvement measures, but not at the expense of threatening the further development of America's energy reserves.

In urging that certain environmental measures be relaxed temporarily, the Farm Bureau delegates called for increased off-shore drilling for oil and immediate progress in the construction of the Alaskan oil pipeline.

Utility companies were also urged to intensify their efforts to provide an adequate supply of domestic energy that would decrease America's dependence on foreign oil reserves.

The energy resolution was one of seven passed by the delegates during Tuesday's session. They will serve as New York State's recommendations to the American Farm Bureau Administration.

The delegates also proposed several measures that would improve rail services in agricultural areas. They called for the reorganization and restructure of bankrupt rail lines; suggested the federal government implement a program of interim financing and long range loan guarantees; and urged railroad companies themselves to adopt a reasonable freight rate system.

In an issue that could relate to the future of the threatened Catskill Mountain Branch Line of the Penn Central Railroad, the delegates urged that financially troubled branch lines be kept in operation even though revenues may not warrant continued service. They also urged that agricultural customers increase their use of the branch lines wherever possible.

In a resolution apparently intended to halt continued subdivision and development of agricultural lands, the Farm Bureau delegates recommended that development of farm lands be left strictly to the owners, and that government control of farm land use not exceed the local or state level.

The delegates also recommended that efforts be increased to establish mutually adventageous trade programs with foreign—including Communist—countries, but voted to oppose the exportation of American agricultural products at less than world prices.

And, in a related resolution, the delegates called for the suspension of large scale wheat and grain storage by the government, claiming that it places undue pressures on market prices. The delegates contend there is no justifiable reason for the storage of massive quantities of grain.

Delegates from the 52 agricultural counties in New York State attended the conference, which ended today.

Innocent Verdict in Property Case

KINGSTON — The Ulster County Trial Jury Tuesday found Steve Drakontaidis (Dracos), 43, a proprietor of the Mid-Town Chop House on Broadway, innocent of a charge of second degree criminal possession of stolen property.

At the time of his arrest Dec. 20, 1972, city police and detectives seized "thousands of dollars" worth of alleged stolen property. During a daylight raid at the Mid-Town Chop House and a private home on Belvedere Street, police arrested not only Drakontaidis but also his brother, Nickolas Drakontaidis, 39, of Pine Grove Avenue, also a proprietor of the Mid-Town Chop House. Charges against Nickolas Drakontaidis were dismissed for insufficient evidence, according to Assistant District Attorney Albert F. Hrdlicka, who prosecuted the case for The People against Steve Drakontaidis.

Among the property seized by police were television sets, adding machines and according to police records, electric tools, typewriters, cigarettes and a shotgun.

The case began in County Court last Wednesday with Charles Saccoman as counsel for Drakontaidis. Summations were heard Tuesday afternoon followed by Judge Raymond J. Mino's charges to the jury.

Fire Commissioners Open Bids

KINGSTON — The Board of Fire Commissioners opened bids Tuesday night for three 750-gallon pumpers, and then referred the bids to committee for further study.

The bid figures were not released. A spokesman for the fire commissioners said a decision on which bids to award will likely be made shortly.

The three trucks, which will be used to bolster the firefighting capacity of three of the city's volunteer companies, will be housed at the Cordts, Wicks and Rapid Hose Company fire stations.

The fire commissioners also continued their discussion and examination of two possible sites for a new firehouse in the uptown area. The prime sites are Clinton Avenue Extension and Hurley Avenue, but no decision was made on either location.

Skating Party This Saturday

SAWKILL — All Sawkill 4-H groups are invited to attend a roller skating party to be held on Saturday, Nov. 17, by the Sawkill Mini-Doodlers. The party is from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Spring Lake Roller Rink.

Other events planned for the Mini-Doodlers include a Christmas party followed by a caroling tour to shut-ins and senior citizens, to be held Thursday, Dec. 20.

Mini-Doodler officers include Jean Murphy, president; Betsy Malone, vice president; Susan Hladik, treasurer; Susan Kilfoyle, reporter; Dawn Chrisey, song leader; and Brenda Chisley, recreation leader.

Industry Challenges Nader

POUGHKEEPSIE — Claims that industry is to blame for the nation's current energy crisis which were made by consumer advocate Ralph Nadar in a Dutchess Community College speech Thursday have been strongly denied by the Council of Industry of Southeastern New York.

"Like all enthusiastic supporters of the coercive state he (Nadar) fastens on industry as scapegoat for the nation's problems, since that rationalizes further and endless intrusions into the economic process and individual freedom. It also diverts attention from the real culprits," said William K. Hayes, executive vice-president of the Council, which represents 115 firms in Ulster, Dutchess and Orange Counties.

"Energy industry leaders and other business spokesmen have been warning for years of trouble ahead from ill-advised government policies designed to humor the radical environmentalists at the expense of the well-being of the great majority of Americans. It's clear that the government's decision makers indulged the environmentalists with oil we didn't have . . . . Stung by the consequences, the national administration is now backing off but it's very late in the day," Hayes said.

Hayes added that if the American people want to assess correctly the blame for the current energy situation, they should ask who has caused and "tolerated" a delay in the construction of the Alaskan pipeline; a delay in exploratory drilling on the Atlantic Continental Shelf; environmental suits that eliminate potential refinery sites; a ban on the use of high sulfur oil; compulsory installation of exhaust emission controls; virtual elimination of the use of coal; creation of an artificial natural gas shortage; and failure to mount a major national commitment to development of a synthetic fuels industry.

Hayes added, "If America's industrial strength and military preparedness collapse for the lack of energy, who benefits?"

Energy Questions Posed

ALBANY — State Senator Richrd E. Schermerhorn (R-C-40th District) has urged further evaluation of the present energy problems thorughout the nation.

"While I wholeheartedly support the effort to conserve energy, I am not convinced that we as a nation have evaluated the problem to its fullest extent and arrived at reasonable and prudent solutions," the Cornwall Senator said.

"For example, I cannot see pressure being brought upon the elderly citizens in their late 70's and 80's demanding that they lower their room temperature when we are told by doctors that these individuals need additional heat," he said.

"The trucking and busing industries have on numerous occasions since the crisis met and discussed their problems with key officials. However, many points are being overlooked. If we force the reduction from 65 to 50 miles on our highways for trucks and buses, we can forsee the following: longer time for each trip, thus increasing the cost of operation which in turn will be passed on to the consumer, which will eventually lead to an increase in the cost of living. These vehicles will discontinue the use of toll roads and to compensate for their additional expense, we can look for a reduction in our work force, thus increasing our welfare rolls," Schermerhorn said.

"It is common knowledge that most of our large truck carrier vehicles operate at maximum peak efficiency at 2300 rpms This enables the vehicle to operate smoothly at speeds of 65 mph. Our busing industry states that their buses operate at maximum efficiciency at 1099 rpms. To reduce these vehicles below efficiency operation will result in additional fuel being consumed, in that when these vehicles are not operating at peak efficiency, they will be lugging thereby increasing fuel consumption," he said.

"If it is deemed essential that we make trucks and buses operate at less than maximum efficiency, consideration should be given to the establishment of bus and truck lanes similar to those in New Jersey and Virginia," the senator said.

"Throughout the State of New York, our Education Commissioner and his staff have been pursuing forced busing. I believe that if this State is concerned about the energy crisis as it should be, one of the first steps to be established should be the immediate discontinuance of all forced busing, for it is the biggest fuel waste in the State," Schermerhorn urged.

"I am firmly convinced that there must be a nationwide re-evaluation of fuel resources and the establishment of priorities to insure that we have a workable solution and not deprive needed agencies of their right to a fair allocation of fuel. With the termination of American involvement in Southeast Asia, the Department of Defense greatly reduced its requirement for fuel. It would, therefore, appear that this allocation should now be mad available to the civilian consumer," Schermerhorn added.

Arab Oil Cutbacks Main Discussion Topic

Kissinger in Japan for Talks on Energy Crisis

TOKYO (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who worked out a Middle East truce accord and improved relations with China during his worldwide campaign of personal diplomacy, arrived in Tokyo today for difficult talks with Japanese allies on the world energy crisis.

The visibly tired Kissinger went straight to his hotel for sleep before his first round of talks with the Japanese this afternoon. Japanese officials said the Arab oil cutbacks would be the main topic of discussion between Kissinger and America's major Asian ally.

Kissinger flew to Tokyo from Peking this morning after assuring Chinese leaders America intends to continue improving relations with Peking "no matter what happens in the United States."

U.S. officials said, however, a joint Chinese-American communique to be issued later today would be "general in nature" and ruled out establishment of full diplomatic relations between Washington and Peking in the immediate future.

Chinese policy has been to refuse full dplomatic relations with any nation maintaining an embassy in Taipei. The United States, with tens of thousands of troops and major military bases in Taiwan, has decided not to downgrade its representation in the immediate future, officials said.

Kissinger gave a hint of what the communique would contain when he reassured Chinese leaders in a toast at his farewell banquet Tuesday evening that "no matter what happens in the United States in the future, friendship with China remains a constant factor in American foreign policy."

Kissinger had only three hours sleep after the final meeting with Premier Chou En-lai Tuesday to conclude work on the joint "Peking Communique."

The secretary of state's visit to Japan is the next-to-last lap of a trip which began in the Middle East with a peace breakthrough and ends in Seoul Friday.

His talks with Japanese leaders are important because they are related directly to the Middle East problem.

Japan, which receives more than 85 per cent of its oil from Arab nations, faces heavy fuel and industrial cutbacks because of the oil supply cutback to pro-Israeli nations.

Japanese Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira greeted Kissinger as he stepped from the plane from Peking. Newsmen at the airport asked Ohira what would be the major topic of conversation with Kissinger.

"The Middle East," Ohira answered in English.

He was asked if Japan was worried about the oil situation.

"Night and day," he replied crisply.

Fuel Supplies Cut for U.S. Pacific Forces

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Singapore, the biggest refining center in Southeast Asia, has cut off all its hefty fuel supplies to American forces in the Pacific because of Arab threats to stop supplies to the island republic, industry sources said today.

The fuel and oil cut was expected to hit vessels of the U.S. 7th Fleet, land-based planes in Thailand and ground units throughout the area.

South Vietnam, Cambodia and Thailand also are likely to be hit by the ban. U.S. tax dollars pay for most of the fuel used in Cambodia and Vietnam, and some used in Thailand.

The Philippines already has cut back its supplies to U. S. forces by 25 per cent and a complete cutoff is probable. There have been press reports of the Japanese government cutting off jet fuel to the U.S. Air Force in Japan.

With Singpore closed as a source, U.S. forces in Asia "are running out of alternatives" for oil and gas, an industry expert here said.

A Saudi Arabian diplomat told Singapore newsmen: "Our policy is clear—no supplies of our oil are to go to any U.S. military buyers."

Industry sources said the government of Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew contacted the refineries Monday and quietly instructed them to stop supplying U.S. military markets.

The government and refineries officially had "no comment" on the ban. Only the U.S. Embassy had a statement.

"Certain companies in Singapore are no longer able supply petroleum to the (U.S.) Department of Defense under their current contracts," an embassy spokesman said.

Aleutian Volcano Starts Erupting

COLD BAY, Alaska (UPI) — The Aleutian Islands' 8,261-foot Mt. Pavlof began a lava show Tuesday, spewing molten rock 200 feet into the air.

The fountaining was a part of an eruption that could rise and fall for weeks without causing any real damage to persons in the area, a specialist in Seattle said.

The mountain began blowing ash and smoke more than 20,000 feet into the air Monday night and the fountaining followed, Tom Morris of the Federal Aviation Administration said.

"Red molten stuff went to 200 feet above the top of the mountain," he said. Morris added the fountaining was visible from here but the smoke and ash elevations were based on pilots' reports.

The volcano, one of a chain called the Pavlofs, is 31 miles east-northeast of here and 15 miles from the Aleut fishing village of King Cove.

University of Washington Prof. Howard Coombs, whose speciality in geological sciences is volcanoes, said in Seattle, "Pavlof has had quite a history of recent eruptions. It is the most lively volcano on Pacific shores."

The volcano had a minor eruption in 1922, and major eruptions in 1950 and 1912. The 1912 eruption covered an Aleut village with ash and the soot was visible as far south as Seattle.

Coombs said that the volcano was unlikely to blow its top—shatter the cone with an explosion—because it was venting off steam and volcanic gases.

"There's no real cause for alarm," he said.

Coombs said that, although the volcano was fountaining, it was too soon to tell if there would be lava flows down the mountain. Most molten lava falls back into the vent during fountaining.

Coombs said, however, that ashes would pile many feet deep on and near the volcano. He said that winds could carry much of the remainder of the ash 100 miles or more.

Because the wind was not blowing towards King Cove and Cold Bay, the towns expect little ashfall and no precautions have been taken.

The Pavlofs, like most Pacific volcanoes, are called strata or composite volcanoes, because they are composed of alternate layers of ash and lava flows.

Mt. Pavlof was named by a Russian sea captain in 1836.

Skylab Launch Now Set Friday

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Countdown for the twice-delayed launch of the Skylab 3 crew on a 60-day record breaking space voyage got under way today with officials confident the problem-plagued Saturn 1B booster rocket was in good condition.

The launch rocket got a top-to-bottom examination for structural deficiencies Tuesday.

Skylab program manager William C. Schneider said, "We are committing to launch Friday" at 9:01 a.m. EST, but a final flight readiness review was scheduled for the booster today.

The countdown clock was started at 2:30 a.m. EST and preparations made to load almost 200,000 gallons of propellants into the rocket.

Astronauts Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue were supposed to take off last Saturday to fly to the eight-room orbiting space station on a mission that could last 85 days if all has gone well after eight weeks.

Cracks in the 22-story tall Saturn launch machine's eight tail fins forced postponement first until Thursday, and then other cracks found in rods connecting the two rocket stages pushed the liftoff back another 24 hours.

The tail fins were replaced with a new set, but rocket manager Richard G. Smith said the second set of cracks, in the structural rods or beams, would not be patched.

"We are not planning any repairs on the beams," Smith said in an evening news briefing Tuesday. "We haven't been able to determine any peculiarities in the history of the hardware specifically associated with this vehicle."

Schneider added that with bracing put over the vertical rods, 'The vehicle has an adequate margin for safe flight."

Teachers' Leader Scores Board

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE — Clark Bloom, the president of the Ellenville Teachers Association, delivered a strongly-worded statement to the Ellenville Board of Education at its meeting Tuesday night in which he charged that the district was guilty of "extreme provocation" in the extended talks it has been holding with the teachers.

Negotiations for a contract with the teachers began last January, and the districts' contract with the teachers expired last July 1.

In his statement Bloom said the teachers have had to negotiate with three different sets of negotiators since the talks began, beginning "anew" with each set. The talks have been held up since October waiting for a report from a State Public Employment Relations Board fact-finder.

"We are now going into five months fully committed to our responsibilities without a contract and none in sight," said Bloom.

With Bloom at the meeting were about 40 teachers, whom he said were at the meeting to express their "great dissatisfaction" with having to work with no contract.

Bloom charged that the district had set up "deliberate delays and roadblocks to candid negotiations."

Bloom urged the district to exert pressure to get the fact finder's report, and to direct that round-the-clock negotiations be conducted as soon as the report arrives.

John Donahue, who was appointed negotiator for the district in July, denied that the district was guilty of "extreme provocation" under the Taylor Law, and said the district was exerting all the pressure it could to get the fact-finder's report. He said the school board wanted to reach a contract as badly as the teachers do.

In other action, the board, by a narrow 5-4 vote, approved the requiring of personal registration for voting in school district elections. The new system will replace the poll list system previously used in the district.

Under the old system, a person could vote in the district just by signing his name at the polling place before voting. There has been some concern that ineligible voters have been voting in district elections.

Under the new sytem, district voters will have to register to vote prior to district elections, or they will not be eligible to vote. According to Sol Sashin, district clerk, the cost for the first year of putting the new system into effect will be about $2,000.

Reversing a previous action, the board voted to go back to its former way of keeping the minutes. A drive to have the minutes kept according to Robert's Rules of Order had been successfully led by Board Member Dr. Arnold Wolff. Wolff said the minutes were full of gossip.

However, once the board saw some minutes kept by Robert's Rules, they did not like them. Board Member Mrs. Florence Kirby said they "didn't mean a thing," and voted with the majority to go back to the old, more extensive, minutes.

The board approved a slate of recommendations from Superintendent of Schools Thomas J. Hayden for coaching positions, with the exception of Frank Muller for basketball coach. The position was given to Victor D'Alessio by the board.

Wolff moved that an expert from the State Education Department be invited to address the school board on the duties and responsibilities of a school superintendent, since Wolff said it was apparent that many members of the school board did not know what these were. This was narrowly defeated after Board Vice President Jack Siegel, referring to the education expert, said, "This guy must be busy in Albany, and as far as I'm concerned he can stay there."

Reports were received from Michael DelGaizo on the District's Social Studies Program, and by Stanley Engelman on the district's very successful Occupational Education Program. The board voted Engleman some additional help for his program.

The board failed to get through a heavy agenda, and will reconvene Thursday night at 8 p. m. to finish it. Among the items to be discussed will be measures to be taken in regard to the energy crisis.

Proper Planning Cited by Speaker

SAUGERTIES — Without proper planning and zoning, the Town of Saugerties will leave itself wide open for haphazard development, according to Michael J. Breen.

Breen, an associate planner with Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress, told Saugerties Rotarians Tuesday night that Ulster County is projected to grow by nearly 30,000 additional people by 1980, and that about 60 per cent of that growth is expected to settle in the Kingston-Saugerties corridor.

Breen told members of the Rotary Club that unplanned development would leave the town in constant danger from such things as poorly constructed second-home developments, subdivisions located in areas that should remain low density, housing located in flood plains, mobile homes scattered throughout the community, and strip development along major highways, with mounting traffic congestion.

A specific example cited by Breen was the strip development along Route 9W.

"This section of highway is the major transportation link between Kingston and Saugerties," he said. "Yet at peak hours, the section from Glasco to the village is overlooaded, and auto travel speeds are sharply reduced."

Breen urged Rotarians to become familiar with the concepts of planning and zoning and to take an active part in shaping the futuure of the town and village.

Following the formal portion of Breen's speech, he engaged in a lengthly and informative question and answer session with Rotarians.

Right to Strike

The five and a half hour firemen's strike in New York City and the strike of hospital employes who crippled 48 metropolitan area hospitals and nursing homes, despite court fines of $500,000 and $25,000 a day for each additional day, makes pertinent a report of the City Club of New York on public strikes.

"We cannot live with open bridges, raw sewage or even with a one-hour firemen's strike," the club report stated. A committee headed by Solomon Heberman, former city personnel director, advocated barring strikes, but only for police, firemen, hospital workers, sanitation men and others who provide essential services.

A new finding, in a city and state with strict laws against all public employe strikes, was that those public employe strikes that are merely "inconvenient" should not be outlawed. That would appear to give teachers and office workers a go-ahead to strike.

However, the report says that strikes and the threats of strikes may force governments to seek alternate delivery systems to reduce the impact of strikes on public services. These alternative systems may be less costly and more effective. Eventually, they may replace recalcitrant public employes.

There have been transit strikes that crippled the subways, sanitation strikes that produced unhealthy piles of garbage and stenches, bridge tenders' strikes that halted transportation, and hospital strikes that threatened life. These would still be barred even more firmly. Others which may be allowed could be helpful in the long run by producing better alternatives. The right to strike is a laborer's privilege. But as a public employe, he has a higher calling which obligates him to duty to his fellow man.

Heart Attack Test

A possible breakthrough for detecting heart attacks moments after they occur was reported to the annual scientific meeting of the American Heart Association in Atlantic City last week. A new urine test which detects a protein, called myoglobin, that is a normal component of heart and other muscle, is the key.

Ordinarily, myoglobin is not present in urine. But when muscle damage occurs, it leaks out of the cells and the blood. Because it has a low molecular weight, it passes quickly through the kidneys into the urine. If the muscle damage is severe as in some rare disease or a massive crush injury, myoglobin appears in such quantity as to color the urine burgundy red.

The amount of myoglobin released from heart attacks and other conditions is too small to be detected by the naked eye. And until recently, it was too small to be detected by conventional tests. But the simple and sophisticated advance of biochemical technology permitted the development of a technique called radialimmunodiffusion assay, now being used.

Dr. Stanley Bernstein, who discovered the urine test, is chief internist at Mt. Sinai Hospital in Hartford, Conn. He said the test is being used on an experimental basis at he hospital.

The test can now be done only in a clinical laboratory. Potentially, it is applicable for bedside use in the home, a doctor's office or even on the street. He hopes to have it ready in a year's time for general use. At least, it could be a simple but effective way to distinguish chest pain, caused by heart attacks, from other pains.

MEDICI BOWL A PRIZE—Five nuns of the Sisters of Charity of Seton College of Yonkers, N. Y., had tears of joy in their eyes when a small, misshapen bowl sold as a Medici porcelain at auction for $180,000 and solved some of the college's financial problems. The bowl had sat unused in a dark corner of an old dish cupboard, for years, where a former owner had abandoned it. "I am so thankful we never used it for cereal!" said Sister Eileen Farley, president of Seton.

DOESN'T WANT PRESIDENCY — Speaker of the House Carl Albert, who, with no Vice President in office, is first in line of succession to the Presidency, says emphatically he doesn't wish to have that office. "I want to stay on as Speaker," he firmly states. "I've geared my whole political life to the Speakership. The House is my life." It was his predecessor Sam Rayburn's life, too.

Tapes Made of D. Nixon and Kraft

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Former White House undercoverman John Caulfield has told Senate investigators about his role in wiretapping President Nixon's brother, Donald, and columnist Joseph Kraft.

These sensitive telephone tapes were ordered by the President's right-hand man, John Ehrlichman, who apparently didn't trust the FBI to do the tapping "because it was a 'sieve.'"

The Secret Service not only tapped Donald Nixon's phone, according to a summary of Caulfield's closed-door testimony, but conducted "personal surveillance" of him.

"Caulfield was to monitor this project to determine if it had any merit," states the summary. "Caulfield did not listen to any of the tapes resulting from the surveillance, but merely kept abreast of the information that was being reported by the Secret Service.

'NOTHING OF VALUE'

This wire tap was placed when Donald 'Nixon was out in California, and Caulfield recalls receiving telephone calls from Secret Service contacts who would report that nothing was happening.

"After three weeks, Caulfield reported to Ehrlichman that there was nothing of value coming from the surveillance, and he recommended that it should be canceled. The surveillance was allegedly terminated following Caulfield's recommendation."

As the "action officer within the White House on Nixon family problems," Ehrlichman also "gave Caulfield the assignment of tracking Donald Nixon Jr., when he got into some trouble in the Sierra Madre, California." Caulfield sent a private eye, Anthony Ulasewicz, to California "to investigate the situation and report it back to Ehrlichman."

The Joseph Kraft tap was ordered in June 1969. "Ehrlichman requested that Caulfield arrange the tap within the next 24 hours. "Ehrlichman explained that he could not use the FBI because it was a 'sieve,' and therefore it was necessary for Caulfield to do this tap.

CONTACTED RAGAN

"After looking at the Georgetown neighborhood where Kraft lived, Caulfield went back to Ehrlichman to explain the serious difficulties in placing a wiretap in that neighborhood. Ehrlichman again emphasized that the tap had to be done and so instructed Caulfield.

"Caulfield told Ehrlichman that he would contact Jack Ragan, his contact from the 1968 campaign. Ragan and Caulfield went to the neighborhood together to survey the proposed tap, and Ragan told Caulfield that he would need (more technical information) in order to implement the wiretap. Caulfield got this information for Ragan from a friend of Caulfield's in the Secret Service.

"Caulfield again went to Ehrlichman and said that a phone installer card would be necessary in case someone were caught while tampering with the telephone line. Ehrlichman instructed Caulfield to go to John Davies, then on the White House staff, to get this card. Davies gave the card to Caulfield who passed it on to Ragan.

"About a week or ten days following the initial request from Ehrlichman, Caulfield was again called by Ehrlichman who said to cancel the wiretap because (the late FBI chief J. Edgar) Hoover would take care of it. Caulfield called Ragan to call off the tap, and Ragan told him 'It's done.'"

PUT IN 'BURN BAG'

Caulfield testified that he later obtained the telephone tape from Ragan and "destroyed it by placing it in one of the burn bags without ever telling Ehrlichman about this tape."

FOOTNOTE: My associate George Clifford reached Donald Nixon who refused to comment on the story. "But I will say this," he said, "you fellows will have a day of reckoning. There have been a lot of stories written. I have a whole drawer full of them. The stories about me by Jack Anderson and many others are 95 per cent untrue and false."

Ragan's attorney, Philip Herrick, said Ragan couldn't comment because he is talking to the Senate Watergate Committee about the Kraft tap. The White House said Davies is now in Hawaii, but repeated calls to Hawaii failed to locate him. Ehrlichman, approached through his attorney, had no comment. Kraft was unavailable in the Middle East when we went to press.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: One of the Smithsonian Institute's most fascinating historical items probably will never be put on exhibit at the famous museum. It's the list of contributions to the Nixon campaign from the Smithsonian Associates' National Board. Of 27 members on the board, 16 coughed up more than $340,000. . . . The prestigious accounting firm of Coopers and Lybrand did the auditing to back up President Nixon's public statements about his San Clemente land deal. Now we've learned the firm got a $242,000 contract from the Justice Department to develop an accounting system for its Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. . . . The Washington Post's rapier-penned columnist Maxine Cheshire has signed up to do a book for $150,000 to be called tentatively "VIP." One of her unprinted episodes involves a busty Playboy centerfold model who dated Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Inside Report

Blame It on Congress

WASHINGTON — An elite group of 32 businessmen invited to the White House last Wednesday for an advance peek at the new energy program also became witnesses to a momentary clash between President Nixon and his domestic counselor, Melvin R. Laird, which reveals much about both the administration's handling of the energy crisis and its general strategy.

Laird was listing energy legislation now in the congressional pipeline when he was interrupted by an obviously irritated President. "But there's nothing on my desk now, is there?" Mr. Nixon asked his counselor. The impressiion given the businessmen: while Laird was trying to solve the fuel shortage in close cooperation with Congress, the President wanted to blame Congress for causing the crisis.

This contrast between the President and his counselor transcends the energy crisis. But in this case, the presidential attempt to lay blame on Congress particularly infuriates Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill who believe their early warnings about the energy crunch were ignored by the White House. In truth, key administration officials admit the President delayed until it was too late to prevent disaster. Even at this eleventh hour, the administration's handling of the crisis seems fuzzy and uncoordinated.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, chairman of the Senate Interior Committee, can claim to be the leading Cassandra. His June 13, 1972, letter to the President warning about U.S. dependence on Middle Eastern oil was ignored. so was Jackson's Dec. 10, 1972, call for Mr. Nixon to name an energy czar.

One reason why Jackson's warnings went unheeded was that domestic policy chief John D. Ehrlichman then tightly controlled decisions on energy, as on everything except foreign affairs. Besides being spread thin by trying to monopolize domestic policy, Ehrlichman was busy attempting to keep from going down with the Watergate wreck when energy decisions were needed.

When Ehrlichman finally fell last April, the dominant administration voice in the energy field became William Simon, Deputy Secretary of the Treasury. A Wall Street investment expert, Simon at first opposed mandatory fuel allocations but later was convinced by Jackson and other congressional leaders of their necessity.

But on June 29 Gov. John Love of Colorado was appointed energy czar and quickly ruled against mandatory allocations, delaying for weeks what Democrats in Congress long had been urging. Meanwhile, Simon disappeared from the energy picture along with his valuable expertise. As the crisis deepened last week, Simon was in Nassau attending a Time, Inc., seminar.

Love, popular and well regarded as governor, has been an almost totally unrelived disappointment here. Even administration officials admit he lacks the background, temperament and governmental powers to be energy czar. In fact, he does not want the power. One proposal to consolidate the government's scattered energy policymaking functions under him was killed by Love.

There is, therefore, a one-word answer to the question of who is running the government's energy policy: nobody. The consequence is a sloppy, sluggish performance by the administration which scarcely supports Mr. Nixon's attempts to blame the crisis on Congress.

When Jackson on Oct. 17 unveiled his legislation for fuel self-sufficiency, Love's office replied it would soon send up its own bill. But one week later, Laird informed Jackson that the many government departments involved had not agreed on anything. That same day, Love told the Senate Interior committee the administration had no contingency plans in case of an Arab oil cut-off.

Mr. Nixon might not have avoided the crunch even had he heeded Jackson's first warnings. in any event, it is too late now to avoid terribly painful economic consequences resulting from the Arab cut-off. ("It's going to be wild in a few weeks," predicts one consultant who advises the administration.)

Nevertheless, almost everybody concerned believes Mr. Nixon should belatedly put somebody in charge of the crisis to at least minimize the economic dislocation. In business circles, Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz is talked about as the best choice. But Shultz, overburdened now as Mr. Nixon's economic czar, does not want the job and probably won't get it.

Be ides, the White House seems more interested in goading Congress. Rep. Torbert MacDonald of Massachusetts, chairman of the House subcommittee handling energy legislation and a critic of the President's energy policies, was not invited to last Wednesday's briefing. MacDonald said nothing publicly but, in private, trumpeted his rage in unprintable language. Although the snub to MacDonald might well be the product of now familiar incompetency at the Nixon White House, it also coincided with Mr. Nixon's desire for a cold war with Congress while a fuel-short nation faces a freezing winter.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Admiration for Julie Eisenhower

One must admire the pretty fighting face of Mrs. David Eisenhower. Alone, she stands in the smoking ruins of her father's White House, defending him, exalting his patriotism and avoiding embarrassing questions by saying: "My father will explain that in his memoirs."

The blonde, brittle Tricia does not stand between her father and the hounds of the press. Mrs. Nixon — she of the concrete smile — pops into public view only to show the White House rose gardens to children, or a political women's clubs. It is as though, in what General Haig described as a political "fire storm," the family is hidden under Lincoln's bed.

Only Julie faces the tigers of the typewriter. Wearing a brave face, she says of her dad: "He's the one who calls us saying, 'Now don't read the papers tomorrow because it's going to be bad. This whole week is going to be bad, and I don't want you to worry about it. I know what I'm doing and I'm doing the right thing.'"

It is possible that her filial devotion is so deep that she believes the things she says. It isn't probable. Julie is sensible and articulate. Her shoulders must be weighted with the knowledge that her children and their children for generations to come must study 1973 as "The Year That Went Down in History."

If Nixon writes his memoirs, will he bare his soul for a million dollars, or will his version of 1972-1973 be listed as "fiction"? How can a man explain that, as President of the United States, he could countenance felonious crimes and not be accountable to anyone? To reduce the matter to its simplest, how is it that he has always confused stubbornness with courage?

At best he is a tragic figure; at worst, a greedy schemer and liar. In 1968, we believed his "peace with honor" pledge, but he didn't achieve an uneasy peace until he was up for re-election. His promises to spare the poor and the helpless from inflation were not redeemed. His detentes with China and Russia amounted to advantages to those nations which they could not refuse.

According to the polls, he has lost the confidence of the nation. Worse, he has lost the team of White House executives handpicked by the President — John Mitchell, Maurice Stans, Richard Kleindienst, Elliot Richardson, Bob Haldeman, John Ehrlichman, John Dean, Jeb Magruder, Eigil Krogh, Herbert Kalmbach, William Ruckelshaus — a summer shower of names.

Julie closes her eyes and stuffs her fingers in her ears as the dolorous facts and allegations paint her father as an impeachable scoundrel. And yet, when she squares her shoulders and faces the reporters, the young lady seems to be so sincerely convinced of her dad's innocence that I, for one, ask myself: "Is it possible that she is right and the whole United States is wrong?"

The President stands in dignity strangling in tapes, reversing his position every time public opinion opposes him. Julie feels that his original "No-tapes-for-anybody," altered to "a-summary-of-tapes-through-Senator-Stennis" to "Sirica-can-have-all-of-them-except-we-haven't-got-them-all" this way:

"He was standing with a constitutional principle, and he wanted to preserve this for future Presidents, but he thought he had reached the point where there was no public understanding for his position." O.K. I don't believe that this was the true reason; over the period of a year I have become convinced that Mr. Nixon was not only aware of Watergate, but also devised and endorsed it with his loyal assistants.

I am in the oozy field of conjecture, and I may be wrong and young Mrs. Eisenhower might be right. If I had a wish, it would be that she prevails, not I. My suspicions paint the White House and the Capitol as selfish, as self-enriching, as bribe-ridden as I have ever believed since Warren Harding was told that Cabinet member Albert Fall was selling U.S. Navy oil leases to private oil companies.

The process is self-perpetuating. All the thunder of Watergate will do is to make future Presidents, Senators and Representativs a little more careful. I am a jade who does not feel that the revelations will stop thievery and skullduggery; fear will cut it down.

I am left with admiration for Julie Eisenhower. In a practical sense, she is the First Lady of the Land. . .

Buckley Column Draws Criticism

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL

Most Reverend Leo C. Byrne, Archbishop Coadjutor of Saint Paul and Minneapolis, has termed a report in a recent William F. Buckley column in the Daily Freeman concerning the involvement of the clergy in a worker's strike against and consumer boycott of Farah slacks and jeans as "inadequate and, at least in one case, erroneous."

Rev. Byrne said the average take home pay at non-union plants of Farah Manufacturing Company is $3,588 per year, and said that grievances such as drastic production demands, no job security and no negotiated wage increases can be remedied by collective bargaining.

Rev. Byrne said he has not urged a boycott of local merchants, as Buckley said, but asked three large Minneapolis-St. Paul clothing stores not to order Farah products, and urged a boycott of Farah products.

"The Church has a long and respected tradition espousing the right of the worker to organize in a union and to enjoy collective bargaining," Rev. Byrne said.

Farah workers have been on strike for 16 months.

"It is a long time since I have been classified among the 'restlessly indignant,' but I welcome the label," Rev. Byrne said.

Rev. Byrne asserted that Buckley's claim that Farah workers, mostly women and Mexican-Americans, do not want to be represented by a union is denied by an elaborate and careful interview-study of nearly 2,000 Farah workers and strikers.

Rev. Byrne said "Buckley also ignores the fact that Mr. Farah still refuses to abide by a National Labor Relations Board's order to bargain with the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. . . ."

"The one tool that can bring about fair representation and assure collective bargaining is a massive consumer boycott of Farah products," Rev. Byrne said.

CHAMBER MEMBERSHIP DRIVE—Len Cane (L), executive director of the Chamber of Commerce of Ulster County, David H. Rylance, president, and Sidney Musiker, membership drive chairman, go over some materials which are being used in the current membership drive. In anticipation that a larger membership will increase the Chamber's effectiveness and strengthen its programs, the Chamber is offering its services to as many business and service organizations as possible. A host of Chamber members are working on the membership sales effort under the direction of team captains John F. Carnright, Virginia C. Ellis and Kenneth Hyatt. The drive is to conclude Thursday. Teacher's Situation Is Scored

KINGSTON

The absence of any significant number of black teachers in the Kingston Consolidated School District again was a topic of discussion at this week's meeting of the Ulster County chapter of the NAACP.

Chapter president Everette Hodge maintained that the "situation really hasn't improved," and pledged that the local organization will continue with its efforts to persuade the school board to hire more blacks in teaching and guidance positions.

Hodge noted that the NAACP has offered to help the Board of Education in recruiting black teachers, and said there are "nine or ten" qualified black teachers working in "various fields" in this area. Hodge said their names have been passed on to the school board, and said that Superintendent of Schools Louis A. Salzmann told him at a recent meeting that several have already been contacted.

Hodge also noted that the office of the New York State Commissioner of Education continues to delay its ruling on the eligibility of police detective Joseph Feraca to serve on the Board of Education. At a hearing before the Commissioner of Education in August, the NAACP contended that Feraca's presence on the school board represented a conflict of interest with his duties as a police officer. The complaint stemmed from Feraca's participation in the arrest and prosecution of several black students arrested in November of 1972 following an altercation with police at Kingston High School.

And, Hodge noted that County Judge Raymond J. Mino still has not scheduled a court date for the NAACP on its appeal of those students' conviction. The appeal was to have been heard last month, but Mino granted the district attorney's office a delay.

C-H Conservation Tips

POUGHKEEPSIE

As part of its overall energy conservatiion program, Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation is encouraging its residential, commercial and industrial customers to restrict their use of lighting, including holiday lights.

"We don't want to dampen the spirit of the holiday season," a spokesman for the utility said, "but the seriousness of the energy situation requires everyone to conserve energy wherever possible, and that includes decorative lighting."

The spokesman added that while it would be impractical to ask that all traditional holiday lighting be done away with, a "judicious" approach this year is essential.

"Ideally, outdoor illumination should be eliminated entirely, and indoor lights should be reduced in number or size," the spokesman said. "Multiplied many times over throughout the region, this could have an appreciable affect on the situation, and it would offer visible proof of a family's or firm's cooperation in the nation's energy conservation program."

Consumer Guide Is Available

SAUGERTIES — Advice on how not to do-it-yourself — a consumer's guide to subcontracting — was made available today by local Ridge Homes dealers.

The Ridge dealers in this area are John Rinaldo, of Route 9-W, Saugerties and Gregory Fallon, of Route 209, Wawarsing.

The free brochure explains how a new home buyer can act as his own general contractor by hiring subcontractors.

Ridge Homes, a division of Evans Products Company, makes 35 models of homes for sale by more than 200 dealers in 21 states, and is the largest home manufacturer east of the Mississippi.

Buyers of Ridge Homes usually finish the interiors themselves, saving as much as $4,000.

The new guide, titled How to Save Money on the Work You Don't Do Yourself, was designed for Ridge homeowners who want to hire professional craftsmen to do some of the interior work, saving less money but getting expert help on parts of the job they don't want to tackle themselves.

Ridge Homes buyers have the opportunity to do as much as or as little of the interior finishing as they wish. All materials and kitchen appliances are included in the purchase price, so they need subcontract only for labor.

By receiving bids from local contractors of their choice, the guide explains, home owners can save dollars by eliminating the general contractor's fee and can also maintain direct control over the work.

Included in the guide are actual labor cost bid forms for electrical, plumbing and heating work, which can be used to solicit estimates.

Also in the guide are tips on where to find reliable subcontractors. It suggests seeking references from people for whom a craftsman has previously done work

It also recommends acquiring bids from three contractors and choosing the lowest bid.

"But beware of the bid that is very low in comparison with the others," Ridge warns. "The contractor may just want the job now, then try to raise his price later."

Some local building codes, the Ridge folder reminds, will require certain work to be done by professionals. That's another practical reason for using this guide.

Ulster's Share

Ulster County's share of the current distribution to school districts is $1,982,295.93, according to an announcement made today by State Comptroller Arthur Levitt. The payment represents approximately eight and a third per cent of the assistance due during the 1973-74 state fiscal year, and is the third to be made during the current school year.

Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Joseph Naccarato, who passed away two years ago, Nov. 14, 1971.
You only have one father,
Patient, kind and true.
But if we could have one wish
We would pray with all our hearts
For yesterday and you.
There's a sad but sweet remembrance
There's a memory found and true
There's a token of love, dear dad
And a heartache still for you.
Sadly missed,
DAUGHTERS, SONS And GRANDCHILDREN

Lila Lee Dead at 68

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y. (UPI) — Lila Lee, a silent screen actress who co-starred with Rudolph Valentino in "Blood and Sand", died Tuesday at Saranac Lake General Hospital. She was 68.

Hollywood gossip columnists of the era linked Miss Lee romantically with Valentino as well as Charlie Chaplin.

She made "Blood and Sand" with Valentino in 1922. Her first adult movie role was in Cecil B. DeMille's "Male and Female" in 1919. Before that she had performed as a child actress in the movies since the age of 13.

Miss Lee was a child star in vaudeville, having been discovered by Gus Edwards in Union City, N.J., where she was born.

Each of her three marriages ended in divorce. After her first marriage, to James Kirkwood, she left the movies, but returned in the 1930s after a divorce. In the 1940s, she made appearances on Broadway and in summer stock.

Miss Lee is survived by a son, James Kirkwood, and a sister.

Public Markets Energy Program

ALBANY — John J. Nigro, president of Albany Public Markets Inc., has announced an eight-point energy conservation program effective in all its stores including the Mammoth Mall store, and in the firm's warehouse, distribution and executive office complex.

Under the program all stores previously open to midnight will close at 10 p.m., and other possible shorter store hours are being considered.

No Christmas lighting will be displayed, and all signs using lighting will be kept off during the day and when the stores are closed. Employes have been asked to turn off all lights when not in use.

Temperatures in selling areas of the stores will be maintained at 63 degrees, and temperatures in back room and work areas will be kept at 58 degrees.

The firm has begun purchasing compact cars for executive and supervisory personnel to cut down on gasoline consumption, and has requested employes to form car pools wherever possible. All supervisors have been asked to comply with the new 50 mile per hour speed limit and all company cars, and warehouse deliveries are being consolidated.

"Due to the serious energy shortage confronting our nation today, we are trying in many ways to conserve on the usage of various petroleum products and electricity," Nigro said.

"In addition, we will continue to explore new ideas in trying to reduce the consumption of petroleum products in both heating and transportation areas as well as to comply with all government suggestions and regulations concerning the conservation of our energy wherever and whenever possible," Nigro added.

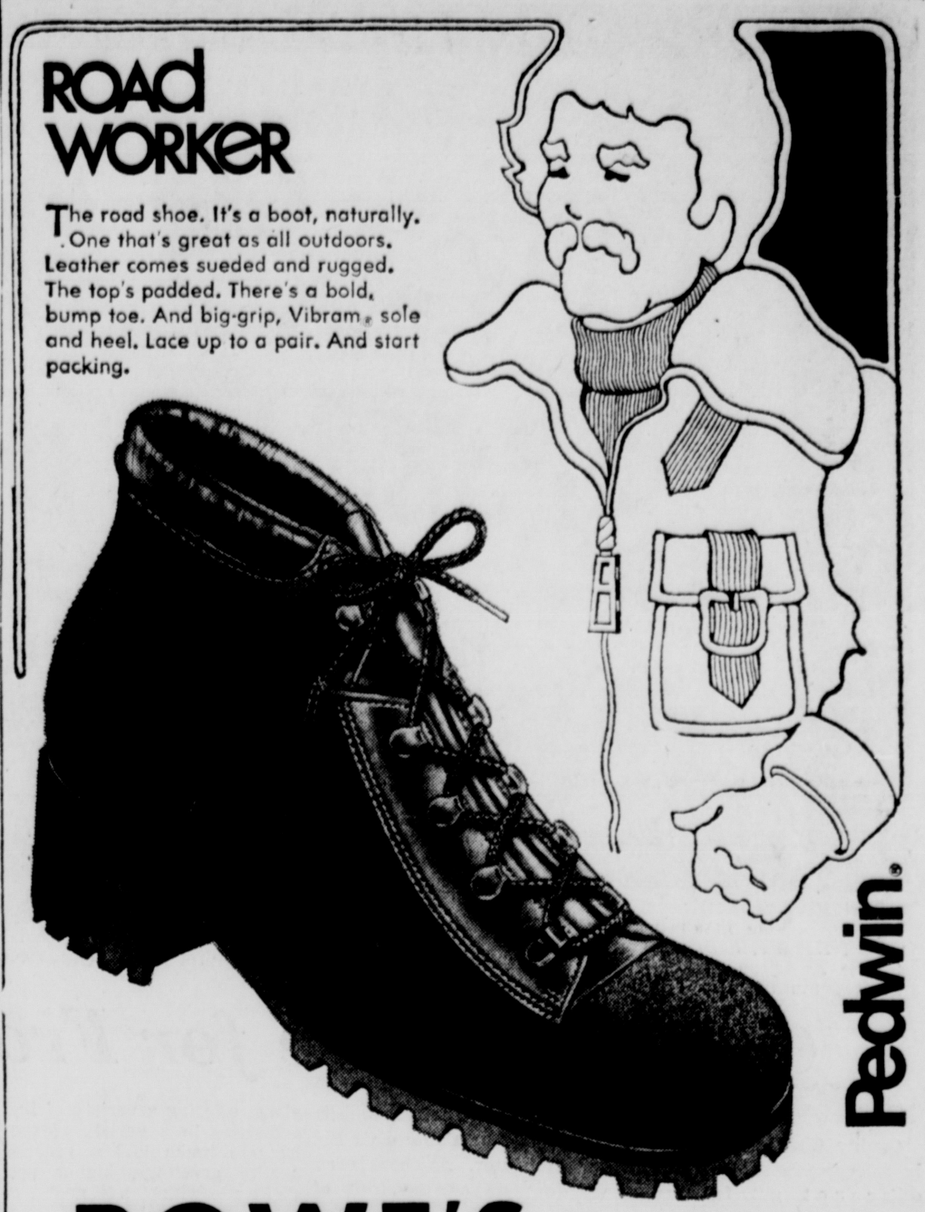

FIFTH ANNIVERSARY — While the Town of Olive is celebrating its 150th anniversary, the Shokan office of the National Bank of Orange and Ulster Counties is marking its fifth year of service to Olive residents. BOUNTIFUL THEME — To artist Thomas F. Nagele the goodness of life is an inexhaustible, universal Christmas theme. Naegele, a contributor of creative Christmas cards to the American Artists Group collections for 23 years, merges the best fruits the earth brings forth with best wishes for the entire year. Introducting many fruits not specifically associated with Christmas feasting, Naegele has painted the essence of what to him is the Christmas spirit of bountiful nature. Cards Suitable for Framing

NEW YORK — Quality Christmas cards can be a legitimate substitute to the discount gift for distant relatives.

That's the report of the annual market trend survey of the American Artists Group.

In other words, for many consumers the perennial dilemma for what to do about the present to great Aunt Julia has resolved itself in 1973 into a simple answer — send her a really fine, impressive Christmas card, which she can frame if she wishes, and forget about the present.

Within the "suitable-for-framing" category personal tastes span the spectrum, according to the American Artists Group survey.

While glitter and baubles are conspicuously absent, a new fascination with coated paper has emerged. The impressive results emphasize the card's resemblance to the elegant reproductions in expensive collector's art books which have enjoyed rising sales in recent years.

Particularly successful is artist Eyvind Earl's exquisite painting of the California's Big Sur in winter. Another is an artistic style on the fruit of college art history courses. And Edward Carey paints the peaceable kingdom in a snowfall as an artistic harmony for 1973.

Other fine works in the collection offered by the American Artists Group for Christmas 1973 is Ranulph Bye's superb watercolor of a country barn in snow and Luther Travis' collection of antique bottles and pitchers decorated with some seasonal sprigs of holly. And for the dedicated modernists, what could be more appealing than Glenn Bradshaw's moving, sensitive painting of ice floes on a lake.

The detente between China and the U.S. has been reinvigorating interest in Oriental art, leading some perceptive members of the American Artists Group to contribute a variety of designs for 1973 that anticipated this swell of consumer interest.

The current of American Artists Christmas cards sweeps along, offering a variety of fine art styles in a variety of subjects to make 1973 a year of quality greetings, higher unit sales with a nod of acknowledgement to the continuation of the nostalgia trend.

These special quality cards may be obtained by writing to the American Artists Group, Inc., 200 Varick Street, New York, N.Y., 10014.

After Supreme Court Ruling

State Gets Capital Punishment Question

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The U.S. Supreme Court has thrown the question of capital punishment in New York squarely into the lap of the state legislature.

After the high court Monday refused to review a state court decision striking down the New York death penalty as unconstitutional, the chairman of the Assembly Codes Committee said the legislature would probably consider a new, revised statute early next year to fill the vacuum.

"Probably we'll go with something we think the court will accept," Republican Asemblyman Dominick L. DiCarlo said by telephone from his office in Brooklyn.

The legislative battle shaping up over capital punishment will be complicated by a confusing 1972 Supreme Court decision against the death penalty.

In that decision, the basis for the state Court of Appeals' ruling against the New York law, two justices in the five-man majority said they would oppose capital punishment in any form, the other three judges in the majority objected to arbitrary imposition of the death penalty, and the four dissenting justices even expressed some reservations about the uneven application of capital punishment.

The New York court, ruling in the case of Martin J. Fitzpatrick, convicted of killing two Utica-area policemen in 1969, found that this state's law was unconstitutional because it gave the jury discretion in imposing the death penalty.

The statute struck down by the New York court provided capital punishment for the murder of a policeman or prison guard or for murder committed by a person already serving a life sentence.

"No one knows what will pass constitutional muster," admitted DiCarlo, a supporter of capital punishment. "We may have to put something together and see how it holds up in the courts."

DiCarlo said this might mean making the death penalty mandatory in certain cases.

Some proponents of capital punishment believe the high court would uphold laws that set more specific criteria for the circumstances of crimes punishable by death—for example, a deliberate killing committed during a robbery. This approach has been followed in California.

Some state lawmakers have suggested expanding the law to cover more crimes. Before it was limited in 1967, New York's death penalty could be meted out for any first-degree murder.

"I'm in favor of the state law as it stood until this year," said DiCarlo's Senate counterpart, Codes Committee Chairman H. Douglas Barclay, R-Pulaski. "If it is unconstitutional and has to be redefined, then I'm in favor of redefining it. I would not approve going back and expanding capital punishment to what it was."

Twice since the Court of Appeals threw out the death penalty, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has publicly stated he favored its reinstatement.

DiCarlo's committee will conduct public hearings on the issue next month, and opponents of capital punishment are expected to argue that the Supreme Court's decisions have indicated that it would reject any new statute, no matter how written.

"As we read the court decisions, no death penalty could withstand court scrutiny," the New York Civil Liberties Union's legislative lobbyist, Kenneth P. Norwick, said Monday.

"We are urging the legislature not to pass any death penalty and we've made the fight against it a top-priority lobbying effort," he said.

DiCarlo said something must be done, however, if only because the judicial decisions have left a hole in the Penal Code.

"Even if the legislature decided they didn't want to do anything substantive, perhaps they'll want to eliminate it from the books for the purpose of cleaning up our statutes," he said.

10-Year Food Price Comparison Startling

WASHINGTON (AP) — A look at food prices in the decade since 1963, when hamburger cost 49 cents a pound and milk sold for 47 cents a half gallon, gives a clear picture of what inflation is all about.

And although federal economists issue month-by-month reports on inflation and the cost of living, sometimes more can be learned by looking at the dollar-and-cents impact on certain products.

As examples, take the soaring costs in four sample cities for such basics as bread, hamburger, milk and eggs. And add some onions.

All prices were August averages compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics for New York City, Minneapolis, Houston, and San Francisco.

In 10 years, the price of hamburger has doubled, with eggs and onions increasing at nearly the same rate. Milk cost one-third more, and bread is 25 per cent higher.

Most of the inflation has come in the five years since 1968, the year the U.S.S. Pueblo was seized by North Korea and the moon was orbited for the first time.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz says food prices will return to their old levels the day new Chevrolets cost $1,000.

However, a Chevrolet cost twice that much 10 years ago. At that time in the four cities, bread averaged 22 cents a loaf, hamburger cost 49 cents a pound, milk was 47 cents a half gallon, grade A large eggs were 53 cents a dozen and onions went for 13 cents a pound.

In 1968, the bread cost 24 cents; hamburger, 61 cents; milk, 51 cents; eggs were still about 53 cents; and onions were up to 15 cents.

In 1973, the bread cost 28 cents; hamburger, $1.06; milk, 64 cents; eggs, 96 cents; and the onions were 23 cents.

The same startling jumps in five years were evident again in two major cities of the Northwest and Southeast.

In Seattle, in five years, hamburger went from 51 to 98 cents; bread from 21 to 23 cents; milk from 55 to 64 cents; eggs from 51 to 91 cents and onions from 16 to 21 cents.

In Atlanta, in five years, hamburger went from 55 cents to $1.02; bread, 22 to 27 cents; milk, 59 to 78 cents; eggs, 54 to 96 cents and onions frmm 16 to 28 cents.

Boy, 8, Recalls Ordeal in Forest

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, Mont. (AP) — "It snowed. But we didn't get cold, we kept a fire going," said 8-year-old Dan Nichols, recalling two months in the forest with his father.

Madison County Sheriff Roy Kitson said the boy and his father, Donald Nichols, 42, walked out of the woods near Ennis last week. He said both were in good condition and good spirits when they left the snow-covered southwestern Montana mountains. The father gave no reason for keeping his son in the mountains that long under rugged conditions.

Nichols and his son disappeared in the area in mid-August, after the father picked him up at his mother's home. The boy's parents are divorced.

A ground and air search was conducted after the man's vehicle was found abandoned on a pack trail. Kitson made the matter public Nov. 3, saying he was haunted by the thought of the boy up in the hills, especially after an early snowfall and near-zero temperatures.

The area was blanketed by more than a foot of snow in late October.

But young Dan apparently wasn't bothered too much by it all, he said in a telephone conversation.

The boy said he and his father hiked and camped and didn't stay in any one place for long. He said they built lean-tos for shelter.

The boy was reunited with his mother, Dena Frisbie, in White Sulphur Springs shortly after the father-son pair came out of the forest. She had custody of the child, but had allowed him to visit his father, when the impromptu wilderness adventure occurred.

"I thought he was taking him down to Jackson (Wyo.), where he was working," said Mrs. Frisbie. She said there were times when she worried about her son's welfare, but said she had no hard feelings.

The boy apparently was none the worse for his adventure. "We had to walk everyplace," he recalled. "That gets to be a drag."

The boy also had an unexcelled chance to view wildlife. "We saw bear, deer, squirrels, rabbits, weasels, hawks and a moose," he said. "We ran into a rattlesnake once and dad almost got bit. It was a big one, too."

His mother said it wasn't the first time her former husband, who grew up on a ranch, and the boy have headed for the hills. When Dan was six he spent a month in the woods withh is father, she said.

Young Dan said he liked the camping, but he also liked to come home, too. "I missed mom and grandma and all my friends.' He also missed Halloween. "I would've liked to have been down here, trick or treating," he said.

Card Party Is Planned

PORT EWEN — Final arrangements for the Town of Espous Post No. 1298 of the American Legion 29th annual card party have been announced by Post Commander Norman Bohan.

The Card Party will be held as usual at the Town Hall in Port Ewen on Thursday Nov. 15. Doors will open at 7:30 p. m. for the inspection of prizes with card playing commencing at 8 p.m. At the conclusion of playing prizes will be awarded, turkeys and door prize drown, and refreshments served by the Post Auxiliary. Although most attendees play pinochle, bridge and canasta players are welcome and groups will be formed to accommodate them.

The Esopus Legion's Card Party is one of the older continuous social events in the area and has been held every year since Post 1298 was originally chartered in 1945. Proceeds are used toward advancing American Legion principles and in legion community projects.

The public is invited to attend and tickets will be available at the door.

U.S. Can Sell Gold Above Official Price

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has announced it will be free for the first time since 1968 to sell gold on the open market at prices above the official gold price.

The nation's gold reserves, valued at $11 billion at the official price of $42.22 an ounce, could net about $26 billion at current free market prices.

However, Federal Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns, in announcing the decision by the United States and six other nations, made clear that America is unlikely to make any gold sales immediately.

"Whether, when, what amounts, what ways gold will be sold by the United States . . all these questions will be resolved at a later time," Burns said at a Tuesday night news conference.

Gold closed Tuesday on the major bullion markets at $97 an ounce. Its price for several months has been slightly above $100 an ounce.

Burns did not make immediately clear what the effect would be on the American dollar or the average consumer. But in New York, Otto Roethenmund, senior vice president of Deak and Co., a leading U.S. foreign exchange house, said the measure was "very unexpected and can have favorable repercussions for the U.S. dollar."

The decision terminates the world's so-called two-tier system for gold under which the United States and central banks of six other countries had agreed not to sell their gold for commercial or speculative use on the open market.

Burns said that the seven countries decided this agreement, made in 1968, "no longer has any relevance to the actual world."

He said he was speaking on behalf of all seven nations.

The practical effect of the decision may be to force a sharp drop in the open market price of gold, since the very possibility that the United States and other countries could sell their gold could have a dampening effect on the market.

Burns said the decision was reached at a meeting in Basel, Switzerland this week of central bankers from the seven countries — the United States, Belgium, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Switzerland and the United Kingdom.

The 1968 agreement provided that central banks could only trade gold among themselves at official prices, although the United States has since decided against engaging even in official trading.

Burns said that abolishing the 1968 agreement means the United States will now follow rules of the International Monetary Fund for its official gold transactions.

He said that under these rules, the United States can sell its gold at whatever price it will bring, as long as the price exceeds the official rate of $42.22. However, Burns said the United States cannot buy gold above the official price.

When the original 1968 agreement was adopted, some countries, especially the United States and the United Kingdom, were losing substantial amounts of gold from their official reserves to the open market.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices opened higher in active trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

A few minutes after the opening, the Dow Jones industrial average had gained 1.28 to 392.31. Advances led declines by about two-to-one, among the 387 issues traded.

On Tuesday, the many uncertainties of the energy crisis led to a broad decline for the third consecutive session. The Dow fell 6.62 to 891.03, and for the third day in a row, more than 1,100 issues posted losses. Since last Friday, the Dow has fallen 41.62 points.

Charges Dismissed

Charges of first degree robbery against Michael Hardin, 18, of 17 Hone Street, were dismissed in City Court Tuesday for lack of evidence. Hardin had been arrested on the charge in connection with an alleged robbery Oct. 31 of Reuben Hendricks, owner of Reub's Service Station, 599 Abeel Street. Warren Dawson of 91 Abeel Street was also arrested on a first degree robbery charge in connection with the same incident. His case was adjourned until Nov. 27 following a preliminary hearing before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Three Women End 3,400 Mile Trip by Horse

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — Three young women rode their horses onto a Pacific Ocean beach here to complete a 3,400-mile journey from Morrisville, N.Y.

"We had a wonderful time," Sally Howell, 22, of Rome, N.Y., exclaimed on arrival Tuesday. "We didn't rush it — just took our time and let the horses take their."

She added: "You can see a lot of country, and a lot of people, when you're traveling at four miles an hour."

"We all three graduated at the beginning of last summer," said Debbie Parker, 20, of Rochester, N.Y. And they began the trip May 28, she said.

"We got our degrees in animal husbandry from the State University of New York, and we just didn't want to go right to work at something, you understand?"

Diane Siderides, 21, of Cherry Hill, N.J., said they couldn't recall who thought up the trip but "we all three thought it was a great idea the moment it came up."

They said they didn't plan to repeat the cross-country ride. Miss Parker said she had a job waiting in New York and would return soon. The other two said they liked Southern California.

"Nice country," said Miss Howell. "We could get jobs and do a little riding now and then."

They said the biggest wear and tear was on the steel horseshoes — six sets were used on each horse.

Historic Film Slated at Dutch Church

KINGSTON

A movie film depicting highlights in the life of the Old Dutch Church will be shown in the church sanctuary on Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in a program in recognition of 40 years of service by the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur E. Oudemool.

Henry Millonig produced the color film which includes such memorable events as the building of the present Bethany Hall addition to the church, celebration of the 100th anniversary of the building of the main church edifice, and the visits of Queen Juliana and Princess Beatrix of The Netherlands.

There are also scenes of "Old Timers' Sunday" during which congregation members dressed in period costumes and some arrived at church by horse and buggy.

Also included are scenes from many of the pageants presented over the years, inspired and directed by Mrs. Oudemool, including the Living Nativity and the St. Nicholas Ride.

The program, which is open to the public, will follow a congregational dinner in Bethany Hall. Due to limited seating capacity, no dinner tickets will be available at the door.

Alexander Yosman is chairman of the "40 Years of Service" Committee. Clair S. Sheaffer will be master of ceremonies.

The Rev. Mr. Oudemool has announced his retirement December 31 as pastor of the historic church, which he has served since 1935. He came to Ulster County two years previously as minister of the Mt. Marion Reformed Church.

K of C Slates Recollection Day

KINGSTON

Kingston Council 275, Knights of Columbus, will hold its silver anniversary Day of Recollection on Sunday, November 18, at Mount St. Alphonsus, Esopus.

The schedule calls for confessions at 8:30 a. m., mass at 9 a. m., and closing exercises with solemn benediction at 2:30 p. m.

Tickets may be obtained from committee members Frank Castiglione, grand knight; Joseph F. Saccoman, chairman; and Edward Hanley, Andrew T. Gilday, Joseph Bruno, John Wright, Philip Dreiser, Edward Ahl, John Bruck, Ralph Carpino and James Kelly.

Noted Writer To Headline Chapter Program

KINGSTON

Walter Gibson of Eddyville, noted writer and magician, will headline the program when the newly formed Kingston Colonial Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons meets Thursday in the cafeteria of George Washington Elementary School.

Gibson, who under a pen name wrote the famous "Shadow" magazine stories, is also a professional magician, and will present a program of magic tricks for the AARP chapter.

The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m., and Mrs. Katharine Lacey, pro tem chairman of the new chapter, extends an invitation to all senior citizens 55 years of age or older who are interested in joining to attend.

School Plans

Plans for a community operated school and day care center will be discussed at St. Mark's Church Hall, 72 Wurts Street, 7:30 p. m. Thursday, Nov. 15.

Oil Imports In U.S. Higher

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — An American Petroleum Institute report issued today said American imports of foreign oil are 31.4 per cent higher so far in 1973 than they were in the first 10 months of 1972.

Effects of the Arab oil embargo were not projected for the rest of the year in the report, which covered the period ending Oct. 31 and underscored the nation's increasing dependence on foreign oil supplies.

Declining domestic production has forced U.S. refiners to obtain 26 per cent of their crude oil supplies from foreign sources in the first 10 months of 1973, compared with 18 per cent in 1972, the report said.

The statistical report on supply and demand trends was released prior to today's opening of the annual meeting of the institute that represents all segments of the nation's oil and gas industry.

Institute officials said it would be at least another week before the country would begin to feel sharp effects from the Arab embargo. There was a minimum of tanker shipment disruptions through October, they said.

The report said an estimated 6.07 million barrels of foreign oil and petroleum supplies were imported each day during the first 10 months of 1973. The report gave no breakdown of how much of this oil came from any source, but an earlier Interior Department report indicated daily imports of about 1.1 million barrels of crude oil and about 500,000 barrels of products could be traced to Arab nations in mid-October.

The report said domestic refineries processed a record 12.5 million barrels of crude oil a day the first 10 months this year, a 7.4 per cent increase over 1972. It said this figure included 3.2 million barrels of foreign oil.

It also said total domestic demand for petroleum products in the 10-month period averaged a record 17 million barrels a day, an increase of 6.9 per cent over the previous year.

Motor gasoline demand climbed to 6.7 million barrels a day, a 5.2 per cent increase that amounts to 4.3 billion gallons of gasoline.

Domestic production of crude oil has averaged 8.9 million barrels a day this year, down two per cent over last year, the report said.

H. WILLIAM VAN ALLEN

Ensign Commission for City Man

NEWPORT, R.I.

H. William Van Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Van Allen of Kingston, has been commissioned a Navy ensign following completion of a 19-week course at the Naval Officer Candidate School at Newport, R.I.

Van Allen is a member of the first coed class that will complete the course and graduate together in the 22-year-old history of the school. The new curriculum for the 124 men and 43 women in the class was developed when the Women Officers School recently was integrated into the previously all-male OCS. Van Allen is a graduate of State University of New York.

Commenting on the co-ed environment at OCS Van Allen said, "The humanitarian aspect of the civilian sector is more prevalent now in coed OCS than it was during the past all male regime. The increased sensitivity, to and for individual OC's will, I hope transform the traditional image of the military leader."

The Officer Candidate School was established in 1951 to provide additional officers to serve during the Korean conflict. OCS and the former Women Officers School together have graduated more than 75,000 Navy ensigns since that time.

The course includes concentrated training in the fields of naval tactics, navigation, engineering communicative skills, leadership and seamanship. The amount of material presented during the four months, in terms of scope and depth, is the equivalent of a full year's college study.

In addition to classroom work, long hours are spent in the school's complex Tactical Trainer, a computer-operated training device which can simulate the movement of 24 ships, and in gaining practical experience aboard one of the school's 80 foot Yard Patrol Craft.

Male and female classmates also participate in general watch standing duties, in regimental positions of leadership, compete in sports and serve in musical organizations.

Ecology Invasion

CORNWALL

Nearly 200 men and 40 U.S. Army trucks with the 854th Engineering Battalion (U.S. Army Reserve), headquartered in Kingston, recently descended on the Village of Cornwall to begin an eight-hour ecology cleanup operation, and to set up a recruiting booth.

Battalion Commander Maj. Frank Willett of Cornwall termed the operation a success, as not only was the cleanup effective, but two men signed up with the reserves after receiving information about the U.S. Army Reserves during the day at Cornwall.

Similar projects are planned for the future, according to Maj. Willett.

Recruiting at Dover AFB

DOVER, DEL.

Dover Air Force Base is currently recruiting to fill approximately 140 aircraft maintenance positions

These positions are air reserve technicians and require membership and participation in the U.S. Air Force Reserve. Salaries begin at $4.92 and $5.14 an hour.

All employes are regular Civil Service and have excellent benefits including up to 26 days a year paid vacation, holidays, life insurance and retirement.

Employes will perform their duties as regular Civil Service employes and in addition will perform one training weekend per month and two weeks active duty per year as a reservist in the appropriate grade.

Since persons in a retired military status are generally disqualified for reserve membership, such persons will be ineligible to file for this examination unless they are currently assigned to a ready reserve position. A military retiree occupying a ready reserve position should indicate the position and unit on the application at the time of filing.

The various positions are located in Central Delaware.

Interested individuals may apply directly to the civilian personnel office, Dover AFB, Delaware, or may contact the Wilmington area office, U.S. Civil Service Commission, 11 and King Street, Wilmington, Del.

New Evidence on Man's Existence in America

DALLAS (UPI) — According to accepted evidence, man migrated to what is now the United States from Asia 12,000 years ago over a land bridge that connected Siberia and Alaska. But now three scientists say they have uncovered evidence to suggest man existed in North America as long as a quarter of a million years ago.

"We're confronted with a dilemma in which we have apparently sound geological data that leads to a head-on confrontation with apparently sound archeological data," Dr. Roald Fryxell of Washington State University said Monday.

Fryxell, Dr. Harold E. Malde and Virginia Steen-McIntyre, both of the U.S. Geological Survey in Denver, told the Geological Society of America they have dated by several independent methods a number of stone tools found in an ancient Mexican stream bed as being 250,000 years old.

Fryxell said he realized this contradicts established archeological evidence that says man migrated to the New World 12,000 years ago and he also said both theories appear sound.

"We have no reason to suppose that over decades, actually hundreds of years, of research in archeology in the old and New World that history is so inaccurate that we suddenly discover that our past understanding is all wrong," Fryxell said.

"On the other hand, the more geological information we've accumulated, the more difficult it is to explain how multiple methods of dating which are independent of each other might be in error by the same order of magnitude.

"It's not fashionable to come into a meeting and say 'I don't know,' but that's essentially where we are right now."

The three scientists said another problem with their finding is the tools are considerably more sophisticated than tools used in Europe and Asia 250,000 years ago.

The tools included spear points, knives, and scrapers. They were associated with numerous animal bones but no human bones have been found.

The animal bones found were from an extinct camel, llama, deer, bison, mammoth, mastodon and a sabre tooth cat.

A camel pelvis found with the tools was dated by a radioactive technique as being 245,000 years old with an error possibility of 45,000 years. Other techniques used to fix the age included the depth of burial, the amount of water found in overlying volcanic glass bubbles, landscape dissection and magnetic methods.

Palsy Aid Is Invented

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A 23-year-old University of Kentucky graduate has invented a device for translating the scrawled writing of cerebral palsy victims into legible characters.

He has filed for a patent on the device and says a manufacturer has already expressed interest in producing it.

Its quite an accomplishment for any young man, but for James W. Fee, it's an even bigger feat.

He was born with cerebral palsy and when he was 3 years old doctors told his parents he would never walk, talk or use either hand.

"Mom and Dad didn't believe it," Fee said recently, "so they taught me how."

He attended special classes in New York until he was 13 and then went to a regular school. He was accepted at Pratt Institute in New York and studied chemical engineering there for a year before transferring to UK, where he received his bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering last May.

Fee plans to continue his studies for an advanced degree and has won a full scholarship from Northwestern University. But he is putting off his studies for a while to work in a project, directed by Dr. Fred Harris at the University of Washington in Seattle, on rehabilitating multiple-handicapped children.

"Harris and I agree on a theory of how cerebral palsy affects people — and we're trying to build devices to help them based on that theory," Fee said. With Harris he was in Lexington recently for a conference on electronic prosthetics (artificial body parts).

The "unconventional theory" that Fee speaks of is that cerebral palsy victims can learn to manipulate their limbs if they can get feedback on their movements.

The conventional theory is that palsy attacks the motor mechanisms of the brain — in which case little can be done to cure the disease.

Although children have been in the project for only nine months there have already been concrete results. Harris said two children once thought unlikely ever to be able to walk are now walking independently.

Stewart Set As Panel Topic

NEWBURGH — The impact of Stewart Airport on Real Estate Values will be the topic of a panel discussion at a dinner meeting of the Mid-Hudson Chapter of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers tonight at the Rhoda Arms, Newburgh.

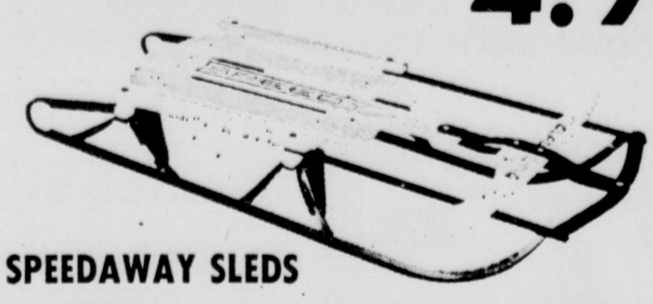

Speaking on the panel will be Henry Heissenbuttel, Commissioner of Planning for Dutchess County, Peter Garrison, Commissioner of Planning for Orange County, Arthur Weintraub, Director of Mid Hudson Pattern of Progress, and Sidney J. Frigand, Public Affairs Director of Metropolitan Transportation Authority.

$300 MILLION PLATEAU REACHED — Poughkeepsie Savings Bank has attained $301,200,0000 in resources, a cause for celebration by 150 bank officers and personnel recently at the Hellenic Center in Poughkeepsie. Charles Grubb (L) bank president, commented on the bank's growth in the past decade from $131,500,000, a 129 per cent increase. With him are George Schlobach, trustee, and Thomas Norton, executive vice president.

Board Acts on Fuel Crisis, Reduces School Temperatures

RED HOOK — The Red Hook Board of Education agreed Monday night to reduce classroom and hallway temperatures to 68 degrees in response to threats of a fuel shortage this winter.

The school board, in order to conserve electricity, also directed that all outside lights be shut off, except for those at the high school parking lot. Both measures take effect immediately.

In other action, the Board of Eduation awarded a $5,291 bid to Ron Prince Chevrolet of Red Hook for a quarter-ton dump truck, and announced that milk prices will be reduced from 10 cents to six cents because of a four-cent increase in milk subsidies from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Three teacher aides were appointed to full-time status: Mrs. Mary Beth Hitchcock, Mrs. Rose Klein and Mrs. Nancy Ward. Mrs. Karen Langridge was named a relief bus driver.

The board granted a maternity leave to Mrs. Ann Donnelly, effective May 3, 1974 and continuing through the 1974-75 school year. Mrs. Donnelly also announced her resignation as coach of the girls' gymnastics team.

A late transportation contract was approved for the St. Christopher's School and, in a final action, the board voted to permit music director Murray Van Ness to attend, with a student, the statewide music conference at the Concord in Kiamesha Lake.

Mary Poppins Set In Poughkeepsie

POUGHKEEPSIE — Mary Poppins will be flying through the air in Poughkeepsie Dec. 15 and 16 in a "Holiday Salute to Disney" choreographed by Estelle and Alfonse.

The program, slated for Poughkeepsie High School, is being produced by the Mid-Hudson Ballet Company, and Ms. Poppins will fly onto the snowy London roof tops by means of a specially rigged flying belt, enabling her to move about in the air with ease.

And to honor Disney, another of his famous characters will make his debut in Poughkeepsie. Appearing in a segment of the holiday spectacular will be Pinocchio, Gideon and Jiminy Cricket in Gepetto's magical clock work shop.

Both of the sets for the Mary Poppins and Pinocchio scenes have been constructed in multi-level staging by Lloyd and Ruth Waldon. Since the entire production is in a frosty holiday setting, the Disney characters will be celebrating Christmas with all nostalgic festivities evolving about a medieval castle.

"Holiday Salute to Disney" is scheduled for four performances, at 2 and 8 p.m. Dec. 15 and 2 and 5:30 p.m. Dec. 16. Due to the overwhelming response to last year's Christmas production by the Mid-Hudson Ballet Company, early purchase of tickets is suggested.

Bard Starts Studies Program

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON — An Area Studies Program has been inaugurated at Bard College for those students whose speciality overlaps several traditional bounds.

College instruction is traditionally divided into departments or discipline such as English, chemistry, or history, but there are some students whose field of concentration embrace several departmental areas.

For example, a student working on 18th Century England might find himself variously dealing with history, literature, economics, philosophy, art and music.

The same is true of a student studying the Southwest Pacific, the concept of freedom, or the problem of hunger.

To meet such interests, Bard has inaugurated the Area Studies Program administered by a special faculty committee and permitting a student to concentrate upon a concept, a period of history, a geographical area, or a particular problem.

Some present area studies and their fields are: Eugene Lehwohl, animal behaviour; Susan Auerbach, ancient Greek civilization; Nevin Scrimshaw, foundations of meaning and logic; Barbara Whiteman, medieval studies; and Christopher Locke, symbolic systems.

The faculty committee is chaired by Mario Bick. Serving with him are Frederic Grab, Jacob Grossberg, and Francis W. Kollett.

Area Designer Is Arrested

POUGHKEEPSIE — Otto V. Werner of 11 Pine Ridge Road, Poughkeepsie, has been apprehended by Federal marshals and jailed for failure to comply with a Federal court order directing the payment of overtime pay to employees. Werner is the former President of Commercial Design Associates, Inc.

According to Frank B. Mercurio, Assistant Regional Director of the U.S. Labor Department for Employment Standards, the arrest of Werner was pursuant to an order of civil arrest secured by the U.S. Labor Department for failure to pay approximately 50 employees proper overtime compensation amounting to $10,500.

"This is a very rare procedure," said Mercurio, "and is one of the very few times in this region that a defendant has been jailed in a civil action."

A civil contempt order was signed on July 25, 1973 by Federal Circuit Court Judge J. Edward Lumbard, sitting by designation in the U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York. The defendant Werner was granted leave to purge himself of contempt by tendering payment and when payment was not received a motion was made before Judge Lumbard seeking the arrest of Werner.

A stay of execution was allowed until Oct. 11 giving the defendant one final opportunity to purge the contempt and on that date, after receiving no money, the U.S. Labor Department asked that the stay be vacated. Federal marshals were then ordered to arrest Werner.

The actions were brought for Secretary of Labor Peter J. Brennan by Regional Solicitor Francis V. LaRuffa.

'73 United Way Drive Tops Million Dollar Mark

POUGHKEEPSIE — The 1973 United Way Drive in Dutchess County brought in more than a million dollars, and stood at 98.4 per cent of the goal of $1,111,000 at the recent victory dinner.

The 98.4 per cent represents a dollar figure of 1,093,655, leaving little more than $17,000 to be raised to attain the goal.

Chairmen Lionel S. Frank was lavish in his praise for the job done by the 1,500 volunteers, and he pledged to United Way Board President John H. Barry, "we'll not only make, but will exceed our goal."

As of Nov. 7, the North Group had achieved 84 per cent of its assigned campaign goal with following percentages: Milan, 45; Pine Plains, 81; Red Hook, 91; Rhinebeck, 89.

Book Week Is Underway

STONE RIDGE — Childrens Book Week is being observed Nov. 12-18 at the Stone Ridge Library. Story time for pre-school children is held at the library on Wednesdays 10 a.m.

There are books and magazines for all ages at the Stone Ridge Library, records and casettes and a collection of art prints also.

The library also offers a rotating collection of large print books made available by the Mid-Hudson Library System. These large print books are popular with those people who find ordinary print difficult to read.

A large collection of paperbacks, gothics, mysteries, and science fiction may be borrowed from the library. Best sellers, and films as welll as a reference book collection are part of the service offered by the library. The library service is free to residents of the area.

Harpsichord Maker Uses Crow Quills

HOOSICK FALLS, N. Y. (AP) — Walter Burr's devotion to the crow quill has made him somewhat controversial among the nation's 100 or so harpsichord producers.

Burr, 29, says he is the only instrument maker who has reverted to using crow quills for the harpsichord's plectra, tiny slivers fitted into jacks which pluck the delicate instrument's strings.

"Most people use delrin plastic," said Burr. "It definitely has a deleterious effect. The sound of crow quill is more pure. The responsiveness of crow quill is much more exact and precise than delrin plastic."

Master craftsmen who made the instrument 300 years ago used crow quills.

He and his wife, Bertha, 26, who does the gold gilding and painting, spend an estimated 3,200 hours on each painstaking reproduction of a French double keyboard instrument built in 1760 by Benoist Stehlin. The original is now on display in the Smithsonian Institution.

The gilding, in which Bertha overlays the wood with a razor-thin layer of gold, is a delicate operation that can be upset even by the opening of a door.

In their quest for authenticity, the Burrs also use Swiss pearwood, holly and boar's bristle in the jack mechanism. Turkish boxwood for keyboard arcades and Swiss mountain spruce for the soundboard.

"We stand with no competitors in making exact replicas," Burr said. "The most controversial (of our techniques) is the crow quill . . . The old harpsichord makers tried almost everything. There is nothing that makes the same noise. We feel this was fundamental to making the instrument."

It takes about three dozen crow feathers to quill a harpsichord. The Burrs, from Buffalo, N.Y., maintain their quill stock by advertising particularly in outdoor periodicals.

The harpsichord, the most popular keyboard instrument in Europe in the 1700s, was displaced by the piano about 1800. With the 20th century came the revival of harpsichord music.

Burr, who has a four-year order backlog at roughly one instrument, a year, will quote only a minimum price estimate.

"The maker is no good if you don't have to wait for your instrument," he explained.

He said the price of gold and ivory has skyrocketed in the last year, and African ebony and ivory, used in the frame, are not available. Burr, however, foresaw that possibility and bought a 10-year supply when he went into business for himself.

He moved from Boston to Hoosick Falls, a picturesque upstate New York village a few miles west of the Vermont border.

He spent two years in Boston in the shop of William Dowd, first making keys and gradually mastering the other challenges of making harpsichords.

Burr began his musical instrument career in Buffalo, working briefly at age 19 for the Schlicker Organ Co., and joining the smaller Delaware Organ Co. for about a year. The couple went to Boston.

Bertha, who has always been interested in paintings and antiques, worked briefly at office jobs in Hoosick Falls before joining her husband fulltime. She has become an artist in her own right.

In the Burrs' comfortable workshop at the back of their small wood frame home are wood presses and strange-looking machines with highly specialized functions. Assembling the right tools, including a century-old lathe and a 36-inch hand saw, was difficult. Burr made some tools himself.

Burr, who describes Boston as the center of the harpsichord making profession, says it is a proliferating field, with an estimated 40 craftsmen in the northeastern United States and about two dozen makers on the West Coast.

He said Dowd encouraged him to strike out on his own, even though the former employer suggested that Burr stick with plastic, rather than crow quills.

"He told me at the time there would be so many harpsichord makers that it would be impossible for us to go out on our own soon," Burr said. "He urged us to establish ourselves."

It took all of 1970 to turn out the Burrs' first Stehlin copy, a 160-pound instrument delivered to a customer in St. Louis. The most recently completed harpsichord went to a private home in New Haven, Conn.

The Burrs also restore museum harpsichords. Restoration is not lucrative, Burr said, but it's a chance to examine another antique in detail.

The Burrs hope they can cut the time it takes to complete one reproduction to about 10 months. But it will never be at the expense of authenticity, they say.

"We make a very strict copy," Burr said. "We put ourselves completely in the hands of the old builders . . . The keyboard of an old harpsichord can't be improved upon as far as design."

Dick Gregory Has New Crusade

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Dick Gregory, who gave up food 2½ years ago to protest the Vietnam war, is still starving and has given up something else — night club performing.

His new crusade is against liquor, which he says is ruining youngsters as fast as dope. He has bowed out of the liquor-serving clubs that gave him his big break 15 years ago and will concentrate on college dates and lecture tours.

"I refuse to do antidrug ads on radio and TV," he said, "because I will not be part of something that puts down reefers and drugs but doesn't say anything about alcohol. I'm saying they're both bad."

The comedian, whose causes have almost overshadowed his comedy in recent years, still lives like a perpetual passenger on the Titanic. He's worried about war, poverty, the poisons in food and the corruption of government.

His wife and 10 children, who live with him on a 400-acre farm in Plymouth, Mass., eat raw fruits and vegetables — nothing else. In case of disaster they can live off nature, he said.

Gregory, 40, consumes nothing but fruit juices, his diet since April 1971. His weight has leveled off at just over 100 pounds, and he says he feels healthy but usually hungry. He had vowed to begin eating once the Vietnam war ended, and he did break the fast for 30 days — eating only raw fruit and vegetables — but he began again because "the same mentality exists in the Pentagon today that created Vietnam. . . . You can't say you have peace if nations are killing each other."

He hasn't decided when he'll eat again.

With such a doomsaying attitude, the strongest thing about Dick Gregory today is that he's funny.

His latest two-record album, "Dick Gregory Caught in the Act," displays a sharpened wit and a gift for political satire that raises chuckles from the depths of his dismay. The album, the subject of his visit to Los Angeles, offers a thick serving of Watergate rumor.

"Isn't it funny," says Gregory, "that when President Nixon's enemy list came out it turned out all his enemies were Americans. You'd have thought he'd throw in a Viet Cong or two to make it look good."

He points to the meat shortage and wheat shortage in relation to his own fast: "By the time I get ready to eat, there ain't gonna be no food left!"

New Paltz Dean On Advisory Board

NEW PALTZ — Dr. Mario D. Fantini, Dean, Faculty of Education, State University College, New Paltz, has been appointed by the Regents of the State of New York to the Regents Advisory Board on Teacher Education, Certification and Practices.

In addition to attending the quarterly meetings of this Board, Dr. Fantini has been an active national speaker.

Dr. Fantini delivered the keynote speech, "Alternative Schools" to the Texas Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development in McAllum, Texas on Oct. 31. On Nov. 1, Dean Fantini addressed the West Hartford Public School Administrators, West Hartford, Connecticut. The address was entitled, "Alternative Education." At a meeting on Nov. 2 co-sponsored by the National Institute for Secondary School Administrators and Marymount College of Manhattan, the Dean spoke on the topic, "Educational Options: Diversity with Unity."

On Nov. 6, Dr. Fantini was invited to speak twice. During the morning session of the Rockville Centre Teachers Conference, Rockville Centre, Long Island, he discussed "Educational Alternatives." Addressing the Ossining Public School Teachers Meeting, Ossining, New York, he spoke on the topic, "Humanistic Education." Co-keynote speaker at this meeting was Albert Shanker, President, American Federation of Teachers.

Con Ed Sees Threat To Westchester

NEW YORK (AP) — Con Edison said earlier this week that the health, safety and security of the city and Westchester County would be in jeopardy if the utility does not get permission to burn high sulfur coal and oil this winter.

A spokesman for the Council of Lung Associations said that to return to high sulfur fuels would be to risk "a potential disaster which could take an unknown number of lives."

The two views of consequences for the city from the energy crisis were presented at the World Trade Center at a packd Public Service Commission hearing on Con Ed's request for an exemption from local clean air laws.

"Because of developments in the Mideast and North Africa and the continuing threat of more substantial curtailments, the ability of two of our suppliers to provide fuel in the amounts contracted for is in jeopardy," said Con Ed vice president Bertram Schwartz.

He estimated that deliveries of low sulfur residual oil to the company might be 25 per cent less than it needs beginning next month.

Charles Luce, Con Ed board chairman, told the commission that any exemption granted the company should be accompanied by mandatory conservation measures "to reduce nonessential energy use."

Dr. Jack J. Adler, chairman of the Council of Lung Associations and chief of the pulmonary medicine section at Brookdale Hospital Medical Center, said conservation measures should come first.

He warned of a possible repeat of the 1966 Thanksgiving Day air stagnation episode when there were 168 deaths in excess of the normal number expected.

He recommended that if use of higher sulfur fu[illegible] unavoidable, it should be allowed on a day-t[illegible] by[illegible] and that the fuels be taxed so there is no economic benefit from their use.

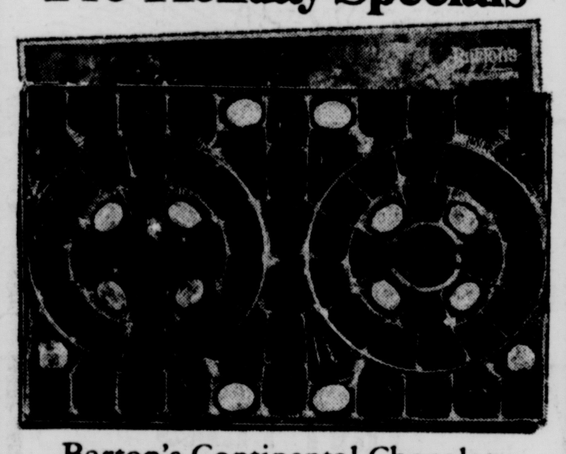

Dr. Peter C. Frudenthal, Con Ed's chief air quality control engineer, said, however, that the expected increase in pollution from higher sulfur fuels "will be extremely small...

"This slight increase in pollution levels will be fully offset if strict energy conservation measures are enforced," he maintained.

Henry Diamond, head of the state Environmental Agency, urged the burning of garbage to modification systems used by supplement fossil fuel in boiler power companies.

Robert C. Johnson of Hurley bid on nine properties as follows: $85 for 45-47 Abeel Street, $25 for 34 Abeel Street, $230 for 36 Abeel Street, $25 for R. of 34 Abeel Street, $10 for 44 West Union Street, $10 for 50 Sycamore Street, $30 for 104-106 Hunter Street, $25 for R. of 104 Abeel Street, $10 for 31-33 Spruce Street.

Upon final approval of the mayor, successful purchasers will be given a proper quit claim deed, conveying all right, title and interest of the City of Kingston.

The properties, most of them in the downtown area of the city, were acquired by the city through non-payment of taxes.

The auction was conducted by City Clerk Louis F. DeCicco. The terms were 10 per cent down in cash or certified check and the remainder within 10 days.

JUDGE INDICTED — Brooklyn Supreme Court Justice Dominic S. Rinaldi (C), 66, of Oakdale, N. Y., leaves police station in New York City Tuesday after he was indicted on charges of perjury and obstruction of governmental administration by a grand jury convened by special state prosecutor Maurice Nadjari. Spokesman for Nadjari said Rinaldi surrendered at the prosecutor's office early Tuesday and was arrested on a bench warrant. (UPI)

Rangers Discuss Billboards

GLENFORD — Members of the Route 28 Businessmen's Association, faced with restrictions on outdoor advertising because they are within the Catskill Forest Preserve, heard Tuesday night from two men who are charged with enforcing regulations governing sign posting.

William Morris and Peter Fisher, two rangers from the Department of Environmental Conservation district office in New Paltz met with Association members at Kurta's Restaurant on Route 28 and explained the laws governing posting of business signs within the preserve.

Morris said that the basic purpose of legislation enacted by the State Legislature in 1969 is to "protect the beauty of the mountains so you can see them without looking through billboards."

Morris said that some of the restrictions that cause hardship for businessmen in the Catskills came about because the law originally was written for the Adirondack Forest Preserve, where there are fewer secondary roads leading off state highways, and that the law had been lifted virtually intact to apply to the Catskill Preserve.

DEC regulations prohibit off-premises signs of more than 10 square feet or with letters larger than six inches, he said.

A businessman in the audience pointed out that the regulations were adequate for the Adirondacks 50 years ago, when originally passed for that area, but that at modern highway speeds the signs become traffic hazards because they are difficult to see and read.

William Oehler, owner of Oehler's Mountain Lodge on Morgan Hill Road, said that the State Highway Department puts up much larger signs with larger letters because it is aware that smaller signs and letters create traffic hazards.

Morris said that regulations permit posting off-premises signs at junctions of numbered state highways where one of them terminates in a dead-end within the preserve, a condition he admitted was rare in the Catskill preserve.

There are no restrictions on advertising signs if they are posted on the property where the business is conducted, Fisher pointed out. A law enacted in 1969 calls for elimination of all non-conforming signs by January 1, 1976, and they can remain that long only if they were registered with DEC prior to Januaary 1, 1972, he explained.

Area Weddings Include DeCicco-Ellsworth

St. Joseph's Church in Kingston was the setting for the wedding of Diane Marie DeCicco and Steven F. Ellsworth, both of Kingston. The Rev. Msgr. John J. O'Reilly officiated at the ceremony Saturday, Nov. 3. Mr. and Mrs. James Sweeney provided traditional wedding selections.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank DeCicco of 58 Downs Street. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Ellsworth of 31 Ravine Street.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She selected a gown of imported satapeau fashioned with a modified Empire bodice, a high neckline and long, sheer cavalier sleeves. Hand-clipped Alencon lace applique accented the fitted waistline and trimmed the hem of the A-Line skirt which was styled in a semi-bell silhouette. The gown featured a cathedral length, built-in train. A Juliette bonnet of matching lace held her cathedral length veil and she carried a cascade of white roses.

Debbie Ellsworth of 31 Ravine Street, Kingston, was honor attendant in a gown of polyester chiffon fashioned with a pale apricot bodice over a multi-colored print skirt in shades of pale gold, orange and nile on an apricot background. Narrow brown velvet ribbon banded the collar, tirmmed the cuffs and accented the bodice. She wore a bow and streamer detail in matching velvet and carried a long stemmed rose to match her gown.

Attendants were Shirley Golgoski and Kathy Ellsworth, both of Kingston. Junior bridesmaids were Joanne Costello and Karen Casey. Their gowns were identical in styling to the honor attendant's except the attendants' gowns featured orange velvet detailing and the junior bridesmaids' gowns were solid apricot with brown velvet detailing. Each carried a long stemmed rose to match her gown.

Doug Ellsworth of 11 Lucas Avenue, Kingston, was best man for his brother. Robert Priest and David Kahrs served as ushers.

A reception was given at Roberto's Restaurant in Port Ewen.

The bride, a 1973 graduate of Kingston High School, is employed at Benedictine Hospital.

Her husband, a 1971 alumnus of KHS, is employed at Rug Den in Kingston.

After a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth will reside in Kingston.

Dorothy Miller Weds Eric Verdon

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Miller of Union Center Road, Ulster Park, announce the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy Jeannett, to Eric Verdon, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Verdon of Appletree Drive, Saugerties.

The Rev. Paul Parker officiated at the ceremony at the Church of the Ascension in West Park on October 21. Mrs. Lelsie Mott, organist, provided traditional wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of silk organza over silk taffeta, styled with a fitted bodice, mandarin neckline and long bishop sleeves. The boidce and front skirt were accented with Chantilly lace. Her full Cathedral train was made of a cascade of lace and headpiece of seed pearls and crystals held her four tiered veil and she carried a cascade of white roses.

Miss Elizabeth Miller, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor in a Empire gown fashioned with a dark blue velvet bodice and light blue sleeves and skirt. She carried a cascade of white carnations tinted blue.

Kathy Miller, sister of the bride, served as flower girl in an Empire gown with a light blue bodice and dark blue sleeves and skirt. She carried a basket of blue carnations and white daisies.

John Miller, brother of the bride, was ringbearer. Airman 1st Class Terry Mooney of Chanute Air Force Base in Illinois was best man.

A reception was given at Ulster Park Grange Hall.

The bride attended Kingston High School. Her husband, a 1973 alumnus of Saugerties High School, is serving with the U.S. Air Force stationed at Chanute Air Force Base.

The couple is residing at Rantoul, Ill.

Katherine Metzger Weds Gary Briggs

Mr. and Mrs. John Metzger of Morgan Hill announce the marriage of their daughter, Katherine, to Cpl. Gary Briggs, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Briggs, also of Morgan Hill.

The Rev. William Rave officiated at the double ring ceremony at Olivebridge United Methodist Church on November 4. Mrs. Charlotte Davis was organist.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Richard Commerford of Morgan Hill, sister of the bridegroom. Dennis Stine of the U.S. Marine Corps served as best man.

The bride had been employed at Micronetics on Roue 28. The bridegroom is serving with the U.S. Marine Corps at Cherry Point, N.C.

The couple will reside in North Carolina.

Carol Miutz Weds Frank P. Gartman

Miss Carol Marie Miutz became the bride of Frank Philip Cartman in a ceremony in Holy Trinity Church, Poughkeepsie, on October 27. The Rev. Gerard Fox officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Miutz, North Quaker Hill, Pawling. The bridegroom, of Eddyville, is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cartman.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Miss JoAnn Miutz of Poughkeepsie, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Anita Miutz, twin sister of the bride, and Miss Joyce DelBoccio, both of Poughkeepsie.

Paul Cartman, Ann Arbor, Mich., was his brother's best man. Ushers were John Caram, Binghamton, and Woodrow Diehl of Kingston.

A reception took place at the Altamont Inn, Millbrook. After a wedding trip to Europe, the couple will be at home in 3 Jack and Jill Drive, Poughquag.

A graduate of Berkeley School, the bride is employed as a secretary. Her husband, an alumnus of the University of Michigan, is employed as an electrical engineer for IBM.

This plan is proving to be one of the most popular we've offered; we're welcoming many new depositors daily. Be sure you also take advantage of its guaranteed high yield, the highest rate currently available from the bank that's first with the most for miles around.

7.08% new effective annual yield on 6.75% a year

SAVINGS CERTIFICATES. Earn interest from the day of deposit, compounded daily and paid quarterly.* Minimum deposit $1,000. Guaranteed from 2½ to a full 7 years. Maximum yield is effective when principal and interest are held to maturity.

6.81% new effective annual yield on 6.50% a year

SAVINGS CERTIFICATES. Earn interest from the day of deposit, compounded daily and paid quarterly.* Minimum deposit $1,000. Guaranteed from 1 year up to 2½ years. Maximum yield is effective when principal and interest are held to maturity.

*Interest dividends may also be arranged as monthly payments in Savings Certificate Accounts.

5.47% new effective annual yield on 5.25% a year

DAY-OF-DEPOSIT TO DAY-OF-WITHDRAWAL ACCOUNTS and REGULAR ACCOUNTS. Compounded daily and paid quarterly. (Earn dividends from the first of any month when you deposit by the 10th in Regular Savings Accounts.) Maximum yield is effective when principal and interest are held.

7.90% a year
new effective yield on
7.50% a year

New 4 to 7 year Savings Certificate Accounts. Interest paid from day of deposit and guaranteed when held to maturity. Compounded daily, paid quarterly. Deposit minimum $1000.

Just make an investment of $1000 or more, select a term of from 4 to 7 years and maintain both principal and interest on deposit through maturity. It's this easy to receive the maximum rate shown.

FDIC regulations permit withdrawals from Time Savings Accounts before maturity provided rate of interest on amount withdrawn is reduced to passbook rate and three months' interest is forfeited.

Legion Auxiliary Calls Meeting

American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 150, Kingston, will meet at the Post Home, 18 West O'Reilly Street, Tuesday, Nov. 20 at 8 p.m. With Christmas nearing, plans are being made for the 23rd annual American Legion Auxiliary Gift Shop at Veteran's Administration Hospital in Albany.

The aim of Auxiliary members is to make the holidays as happy as possible for hospitalized veterans by giving them the opportunity to send Christmas Gifts to each of his loved ones at home. There are approximately 1000 veterans hospitalized. At least 5,000 gifts will be needed.

Since there are hospitalized veterans from both World Wars, Korean and Vietnam conflict, gifts for both young and senior members of the families are needed. Already Auxiliary volunteers are preparing to transform the third floor recreation room at the hospital into a festive gift shop where the veteran will select his gifts which will be wrapped and mailed by members of the Auxiliary.

Through the Christmas gift shops in the 12 VA hospitals, members provide a morale booster for confined veterans by offering them the chance to experience the positive joy of giving.

The public as well as Auxiliary members are urged to send new, attractive and useful gifts to the Post Home by November 20.

CHRISTMAS BAZAAR AND LUNCHEON — The women of St. John's Episcopal Church in Kingston are preparing for their annual Christmas bazaar and luncheon. It will be held at the church on Wednesday, Dec. 5 from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. with luncheon served at 2. Mrs. Robert Murray, general chairman, at left, has made various committee chairmen announcements. Pictured with her are (L-R) Mrs. Jessie Wolfersteig, publicity; Mrs. Phillip Corrado, luncheon chairman; and the Rev. Mark S. Sisk. Also serving on the committee will be Mrs. Wayne Lundquist, homebaked goods; Mrs. Howard Greiner, handmade items; Mrs. Frank Pugliese, Christmas decorations; and Mrs. Dennis Bart, jewelry. Doctor Develops Home Treatment that

RINSES AWAY BLACKHEADS

Help Dry Up ACNE-PIMPLES...

QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE

MUST SHOW IMMEDIATE IMPROVEMENT — OR YOUR MONEY BACK

A leading New York Doctor, working with a cosmetic laboratory, has developed a simple home treatment that rinses away blackheads, helps dry up acne pimples, and shrinks enlarged pores. The name of this medicated product is QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE. Apply this delightfully Mint-Scented Cream and within 2 or 3 minutes an absorbing agent called Argilla, dries and turns this cream into a plastic-like masque. You will now feel as though hundreds of "tiny fingers" are kneading the skin, loosening pore-caked dirt, blackheads and other foreign impurities. As if firms and hardens, its suction action draws out waste matter from the pores . . . In 15 minutes you simply rinse the masque away with lukewarm water which dissolves it immediately. When you wipe your face, you can see that blackheads and other pore "filler" actually comes off on your wash cloth. And your skin feels clean . . . really clean . . . refreshed, smooth like velvet. Women 35 and over will enjoy the skin tightening experience as the masque relaxes tired facial muscles and eases tension lines on face and throat. If you suffer the agony of blackheads, acne-pimples, and enlarged pores, give yourself this home treatment and see the breath-taking results. Ask for it by name QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE.

Mrs. Homemaker: Milk as a Sedative

Ever use tryptophan as a sedative, asks Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist. You have if you're a warm milk-at-bedtime person, according to Dr. Julius Segal, a staff member of National Institute of Mental Health and author of several books on sleep.

Trytophan is an amino acid found in protein-rich milk and according to Dr. Segal, has had a definite sedative effect on volunteers in research studies on sleep.

The volunteers given doses of tryptophan fell asleep quickly, slept soundly and awakened less often during the night.

Other stand-by sleep inducers such as alcohol and that last cigarette can actually disrupt the sleep progress in some people, Dr. Segal says.

If taken in a small enough quantity, alcohol can induce drowiness, but an excessive amount will cause excessive dreaming leading to lighter, less sound sleep.

The caffeine in coffee and cola drinks may also cause sleeplessness, although Dr. Segal states that the power of suggestion about that forbidden late-night cup of coffee is what actually keeps some people awake.

Although many people think that excessive mental or physical exercise right before bedtime will make them drop off faster, it actually has the opposite effect, causing stress and putting off sleep. The best time for physical exercise, Dr. Segal says, is early in the morning. And the best mental exercise before bed is that of a non-stimulating nature.

Tobacco also has a disruptive effect on some people, since nicotine acts as a stimulant and those smokers sensitive to its alerting properties may suffer tightening of blood vessels and the attending perked-up nervous system, increased heart beat and speeded-up breathing.

On the other hand, some smokers find the mere action of smoking that final cigarette soothing and relaxing.

Although this same soothing sensation is experienced by some milk drinkers, to whom milk is a symbol of motherly love and security, its actual chemical sleep-inducing properties such as tryptophan cannot be dismissed. And at 15 to 16 cents a pound, milk adds up to the most economical sedative on the market today!

How to turn nature's flour into natural bread.

It's easy, honest.

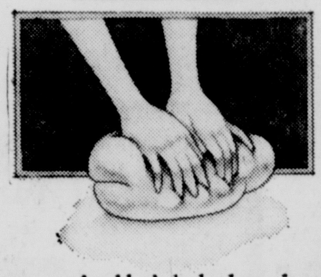

Bread baking is really nothing to be afraid of.

Because our King Arthur recipe will have you enjoying delicious, homemade natural bread in just 4 hours. (And most of that time, the bread is doing all the work itself!)

Why do we say natural bread?

Well, we don't bleach our flour to make it white. Or add any additives. Our flour is naturally white, and naturally pure (we've made it that way since 1790).

That's why King Arthur Flour is nature's flour.

And it has the higher protein content that's so important in baking.

So open up a bag of our good King Arthur Flour.

And let's bake bread.

Here's what you'll need:

Yield: two loaves
1 cup water
1 cup whole or skim milk
6 tablespoons butter, margarine, or oil
2 tablespoons honey or sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1 pkg. active dry yeast
5½-6 cups King Arthur Flour

Mixing

Combine water, milk and shortening in a saucepan and heat until lukewarm.

Pour into mixing bowl, and add sugar, salt, yeast and 2 cups of King Arthur Flour.

Beat for 2 minutes with an electric beater at medium speed. Then, stirring by hand, gradually add the balance of the flour until the dough pulls away cleanly from the sides of the bowl.

Kneading

Place the dough on a floured board.

To knead, fold the far edge of the dough back over on itself toward you. Then press into the dough, pushing it away with the heels of your hands. Repeat in a continuous rhythm.

(After each push, turn the dough about one-fourth of the way around.)

While kneading, you'll occasionally have to sprinkle a little more flour on the board to keep the dough from sticking. When the dough has been kneaded enough (about 7 or 8 minutes) it won't stick to the board or your hands. It will look smooth, and feel elastic and satiny.

Before rising

Round the dough into a smooth ball. Place it in a lightly greased bowl, and turn the dough to grease its entire surface. The dough should only half fill the bowl.

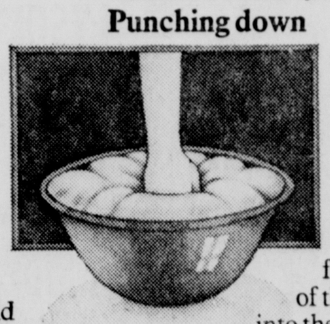

Cover the bowl with a towel and set it in a warm place (78 to 82 degrees is best) for 1-1½ hours or until double in bulk.

After rising

You can tell when your dough has risen enough by pressing one of your fingers deeply into it.

If the impression remains, the dough is light and ready to be panned. Don't let the dough overrise, because your bread could have a yeasty taste.

Punching down

Place your fist against the dough and punch down into the bowl. (This breaks up gas pockets that would cause holes.) Then fold the edges of the dough down into the bowl and punch down again.

Divide the dough in half, shape into two loaves, and place into greased bread pans. Let the dough rise for about an hour, or until double in bulk.

Baking

Bake in a preheated 375 degree oven for 45 minutes. Keep the pans apart so the heat can circulate freely.

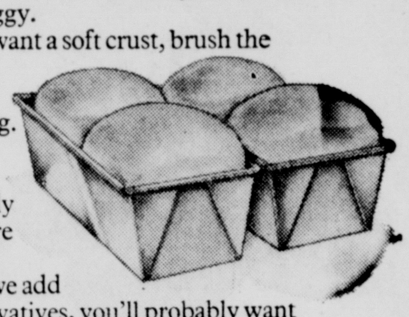

"Oven spring" (the first quick rising) will take place in the first 10 minutes. If the oven temperature is right, no browning should occur.

Your bread is done when the loaves shrink from the pan and sound hollow when the top crust is tapped with a finger.

After baking

Remove the loaves from their pans immediately and place on cooling racks. Don't cover them or your bread will be soggy.

If you want a soft crust, brush the tops with melted shortening. Be sure bread is completely cool before storing.

Since we add no preservatives, you'll probably want to freeze one loaf to keep it fresh. Just place it in a sealed plastic bag first.

When defrosting, leave your bread in the plastic bag to keep the moisture and flavor.

A MOTHER'S MEMORIES COULD FILL A BOOKCASE

Dear Heloise:

Let me tell you about the idea I came up with to preserve the lovely greeting cards I receive on special occasions from my two sons.

I took the cards and cut them in various sizes and shapes to include the signatures and verses.

Then I took an old bookcase, glued all the cards and verses on. I followeed the proper procedure for decoupaging.

Heloise, you'd be amazed how well it turned out.

It was just an old junky bookcase, but now there's not enough money in the world to buy it from me.

These cards are so precious to me, especially the way they have been signed — you see my boys are men now and have homes of their own.

Barbara

. . . and those precious cards continue to spread their love and cheer through each day of the year. Bless you!

Dear Heloise:

Do you have a drawer in your kitchen cabinet that is so overcrowded that half the time when you go to open it — it won't budge?

Well, if you don't, I'm impressed. Anyway, just wanted to tell you how to open that drawer if you ever do have this problem.

Just insert a long, narrow spatula through the crack at the top of the drawer and hold down the cause of your trouble until you can work the drawer open.

I certainly had many bad moments until I made this little discovery.

"Cluttered"

Dear Heloise:

Don't throw away those new long, skinny potato chip cans. They make perfect candle molds.

Leave the liner in the can and when you are ready to use the candle just peel it off.

Even the lid can be used to seal the can until the candle is needed.

Mrs. E. Smith

Dear Heloise:

I have found another use for adhesive-backed paper!

It is an easy way to make a background or matting when framing a picture.

You can buy it in many different colors or tones and it's so easy to apply.

AAUW FASHION SHOW — The New Paltz Branch of the American Association of University Women will sponsor a fashion show on November 27 at 8 p. m. in the Fellowship hall of the New Paltz Reformed Church. Among those modeling will be (L-R) Amy Stratton, Christina DeWitt and Andrew Babb. Proceeds from the show will be allocated to the AAUW Fellowship Program which, since its establishment in 1888, has provided more than 2,600 awards to women in the United States and 77 other countries. Each year, many women are able to continue their education or conduct important research and special projects through this worthwhile program. Fashions will be shown through the courtesy of The Magic Dragon, The Dressing Room and Creative Playthings by Winifred's Backyard, all in New Paltz. Tickets will be sold at the door the night of the show and are now available from AAUW members.

Rebekahs Plan Fund Raising

Queen Ulster Rebekah Lodge No. 34 will hold a card and bunco party Tuesday, Nov. 20 at 8 p.m. in Odd Fellows Temple, Saugerties. The public is invited. There will be awards and refreshments. The regular meeting is slated for 7:30 p.m. All members are requested to donate a gift.

The charter and altar were draped at the November 6 meeting in memory of the Lodge's late members, Louella Teetsell and Hayzel Herrick. District Deputy President Mildred McGloughlin deputized Judith Martin, past district deputy president, to install Marie Gundersen as the left suporter of the noble grand. Acting Deputy Martin was assisted by acting marshall, Anna Minkler, and acting chaplain, Florence Gippert.

Hilda Van Etten, noble grand, apointed Ruth Transom in charge of the flower committee for the ensuing year and Hannah Lewis, Judith Martin, vice grand and noble grand as the visiting committee.

The secretary read a letter from the International Association of Rebekah Assemblies president, Jennie Sue Pearsen.

Refreshments were served by Hilda Van Etten and her committee.

Wants Wife Filled Out, Not Fat

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for five years. I've always told her that I prefer well-filled out girls to skinny ones. My wife is really overweight, but knowing that I like a well-padded body has given her an excuse to get sloppy fat.

She is 5 feet 2, weights about 170 pounds, and is still gaining. I've hinted that she should start reducing, but to no avail. How can I get it across to her that I would like her to lose about 40 pounds?

AIR FORCE

DEAR HUSBAND: Quit hinting, and tell her that by "well-filled out" you do not mean, "bursting at the seams." Tell her, too, that carrying around all that excess weight is unhealthy, and you'd be heartbroken were she to drop dead of high blood pressure or heart trouble, because then you'd be forced to replace her with a younger, slimmer, healthier woman. (THAT should do it!)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I would like to get the opinion of some hairdressers. My mother passed away, and a few hours later I got a phone call from a hairdresser saying she had heard the sad news, and wanted to come to the funeral home to fix my mother's hair. She said she thought so much of Mom she felt that this was the last favor she could do for her. I thanked her, and told her I appreciated her generosity. (No mention was made of money.)

After the funeral, this hairdresser called the funeral home and demanded $15. Of course I saw to it that she got her money, but I really think it is a shame that a person would call and offer her services as a "friend," and then ask for money.

She later said it was against the law to do that kind of work for free. Is it?

JUST WONDERING

DEAR JUST: If it is, it's news to me. Hairdressers?

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband says he thinks I don't like being married. I asked him why, and he said: "Because of the comments you make to single people like, 'You're not missing anything,' or, 'You don't known when you're well off.' "

I know this sounds like a reflection on my marriage, but Im not speaking of mine. I'm referring to the majority of marriages I read about in your column, and also to the statistics.

As a single person, I had no debts and able to save a large sum of money. Since I've been marrried, I haven't saved a dollar and we always are in debt.

How can I convince my husband that I am satisfied with my marriage? I explained to him that I was not referring to our marriage, but only to marriages in general.

BIG MOUTH

DEAR BIG MOUTH: You will have a tough time convincing him— and also me!

DEAR ABBY: My mother was a young widow with three children when she remarried. Abby, not all men can accept stepchildren as their own. My stepfather has been good to me (the only girl) but he's been awfully hard on the boys. One ran away years ago, but the other is sticking it out until he finishes school. Mom and I have always tried to give the boys lots of love to make up for the lack of fatherly love.

However, Mom is now destroying the child she's trying to protect. He can't get up in the morning himself, so she wakes him four or five times and has breakfast waiting for him. She drives him to and from work, otherwise he'd be late. He's refinanced when he overspends, and Mom runs all his errands — the latest being payment of a traffic ticket. (He didn't even say "thank you.")

I am seven years older than this brother, self-supporting, and live in the same town. I would like to see the kid allowed to mature. I know he would, if Mom would only let him. Watching her wait on him constantly infuriates my stepfather. If I say anything to Mom, she says I'm jealous. I don't think I am. I am only concerned because the boy will be 20 next month and he's incredibly immature and irresponsible. I'd do anything to get my mother off his neck. Should I talk to a friend she respects? We have no clergyman.

BIG SISTER

DEAR SIS: Yes! If the friend makes as much sense as you do.

New YW Women's Club In Organizational Stages

Children getting you down? Want to get out to share your interests? Want to meet others in a similar situation? A club for young women is being formed at the YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue, Kingston. The club will be open to women, 35 years of age and under, who would be eager to take part in a daytime activity where babysitting is available.

The club is still in the planning stages. Interested women are asked to contact the YWCA so that all suggestions may be considered. The club will reflect its membership's interests.

Young women should contact Eunice R. Kahn, Adult Program director of YWCA, or Lucille Pritchard of Kingston.

The YWCA is a member of the United Way of Ulster County.

Improper Policy

Editor, The Freeman:

At the risk of sounding unconcerned, or even unpatriotic, I must take issue with President Nixon's request that we, the individual citizens of the United States, must now further sacrifice our environment and our way of life for the sake of our "national interests." I object strongly to Mr. Nixon's plea on several accounts.

First, the main reason for our current energy crises is, obviously, the Mid-East crisis. Said war is accounting for the loss of one third of our fuel resources. The U.S. government knew full well of the inherent risks to our resources when it chose to supply Israel with arms and aid. Did the government ask for our help or advice then when it decided to supply said support? No, but now it asks us, the individual citizens to get it out of the mess it created!

Secondly, I resent participation in measures to sacrifice our way of life. Because although Mr. Nixon claims the government will also cut back, it is clear that they will continue to misuse fuel supplies insanely! For example, the N. A. S. A. Skylab III is still scheduled to take off. Just imagine the hundreds of thousands of gallons of fuel going into that rocket as you sit in your tepid living room!

For these reasons I thus feel a strong repulsion when our president asks individual citizens to do our part for "national interest." If the national interest is to perpetuate wars and send men into space while millions sacrifice at home, then it surely seems both unfair and unwise to cooperate!

But, the question arises — what if we don't cooperate? First, I propose, the federal government must realize, as it did recently with the public outcry at Cox's dismissal, that the public can no longer be ignored, or used as the sacrifical lamb to bail out the government for its own mistakes!

And what of the non-political effects if the public refuses to cooperate? The energy crisis would obviously worsen and then, perhaps, the government would have to adopt measures to solve its own problems! Perhaps a strong enough public refusal might even force the U.S. to stop meddling in foreign skirmishes and thus protect both our own fuel resources and help alleviate senseless killing. Also, the question arises — is it worse to be cold this winter or to re-pollute our air with coal fuels, which emit dangerous levels of sulphur?

So, which is worse — to play scapegoat for our government's failures to perpetuate the energy crisis? As one who years ago adopted stringent conservation measures, in the name of ecology and economy, on my own, I must now, finally take issue. I, for one, will refuse to help any more than I already have. I will make no extra sacrifices unless forced to and I urge you to do the same.

Regretfully,
DAVID P. DeMERS

Low Blow

Editor, The Freeman:

Dear Voters of the Town of Shandaken;

By a mere coincidence I received a piece of literature from the Republican Committee of the Town of Shandaken on election day. Within this letter was contained one of the lowest blows that I have ever witnessed in regard to a Democratic candidate running for office. The message was in regard to a Mrs. Heidi Leard who was running for Councilman of our town. The letter stated that she favors construction of new building in our town: Well, why not? She has a husband that puts his two hands that God gave him to work to support his family and bring home the bacon to pay his high town taxes.

I think that she feels the same as I do about this matter. The more home building that comes to our township the more revenue the Town of Shandaken will receive and the easier and cheaper it will be for the common workingman like Heidi's husband and myself to live in the town. For each house that she and her husband build sell — the tax burden will be lessened for the rest of the town.

As for Riverby Inc., being powerful and all that "hodge-podge." Why doesn't the town take the 'ball' that Riverby gave them and start our own Little League Field, recreation park, playground or public facility. I, have personally worked on several of Riverby's speculation homes and to say the least, they are a credit to any township. The Town of Shandaken should take notice of what Riverby has done for the Town of Woodstock. Riverby can and I hope will do much for the Town of Shandaken. Believe me it is no ALBANY AVENUE as stated in the literature I received from the Republican committee.

I close, hoping I have made my point, even though a little too late. I too work with my two hands and I am sure that if Riverby is allowed to grow and prosper in our town we will all benefit from the activities of this organization.

Good luck to Heidi and I hope that she sells a lot of homes, so we may find enough money in our town budget to develop the land bequested to the town by Riverby Inc.

Very truly yours,
GERALD L. HERDMAN

Malicious Tactics

Editor, The Freeman:

This years' election is past, but I would like to comment on the last minute tactics of the Town of Shandaken Republican Party.

The week-end before election the Republican Party sent out informative literature on their list of candidates. What I objected to was the enclosure of a letter singling out one opposition candidate for councilwoman, Heidi Leard, making untrue statements about her. If the party in power felt these accusations were fact, why weren't they brought out early enough in the campaign so that in fairness, the candidate would have time to reply.

It is unfortunate that many people are influenced by such misleading information. It disturbs me that in light of what is going on in Washington politics that this kind of strategy continues in this country.

This malicious underhandedness that goes on within party politics is one of a number of reasons why many people including myself, are not enrolled in any party.

Politic Poetry

Editor, The Freeman:

As one whose side lost an election,
I feel no pain and no dejection—
For those who voted for the winners
Will be more sinned against than sinners.
I shed no tears, who write this letter,
Things will get worse instead of better,
As victors view with silent laughter
Their victims ruled forever after.
Next year is when they'll hone their axes
And cut you down by raising taxes.
For now, they merely upped the budget.
Take heed, my friends, and then begrudget.

The Losers

Editor, The Freeman:

The Wednesday, Nov. 7 DAILY FREEMAN on Page 23 article reporting the Town of Wawarsing election results, overlooked a write-in-vote cast for Supervisor on behalf of Nathan Pressman.

Had the pleasure of seeing and listening among others on TV to the Socialist Labor Party candidates for Mayor of New York City and Governor of New Jersey prior to the recent election.

As of this writing, Nov. 11, I don't know how many votes they received. In my estimation, they presented the message of the SLP to the best of their ability. They stuck up for the noble principles of Socialism as advanced by the SLP.

As a famous writer, George Eliot, put it:

"Any coward can fight a battle when he's sure of winning; but give me the man who has pluck to fight when he's sure of losing. That's my way, sir; and there are many victories worse than a defeat."

Letters to the Editor

Let Them Pass

Editor, The Freeman:

In this day of volunteer first aid and ambulance service, particularly in the rural areas, I wonder how many people know the meaning of a flashing green light on a private car? It means a first aider on his or her way to an emergency. More often then not, first aiders go to the scene in their own car because they are closer to the scene than the ambulance and can get the means of saving a life as well as giving comfort to the sick and injuried until the ambulance arrives. All first aiders do not have green lights, but use their fourway flashers and high beams. I belong to the Olive First Aid Squad and I am sure I can speak for all of the people who are active in this service throughout the county in saying thank you for letting us through.

Very truly,
OLLIE ADAMS

Not For DST

Editor, The Freeman:

Contrary to your headlines on the front page of the Sunday Freeman, I for one, am not looking forward to the return of Daylight Saving Time at the out-set of the winter.

As parents who have to get children to school, we must rise at 6 a.m. With Daylight Saving Time this would be one and a quarter hours before daylight.

The children would have to leave the house at dawn (the coldest part of the morning) in order to catch the 7:25 a.m. school bus which is a 15 minute walk away. On a cold windy sub-zero morning this in my opinion would be a great hardship for school children.

There is a question in my mind on how much energy the average house holder will save when he has to burn the lights early in the morning.

I fear people will find that any energy that might be saved will be negated by sickness and absenteeism from school.

Very truly yours,
JOSEPH I. CAREY
Port Ewen, N.Y.

Thank You

Editor, The Freeman:

Saugerties Athletic Booster Club,

I would like to thank you for the warm and kind reception we received at your stadium at our recent football game. We really appreciated your tribute to the senior parents, and I do hope both teams continue this fine tradition. After a very hard fought game it was very heartwarming to see both the players and their parents getting together after the game and really making friends.

Thank you again,
Mrs. Paul (Marie) Schleede

Anonymous Oil Dealer Aids Family

OTISVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—An obliging oil dealer has come to the rescue of a mother and her two children whose farmhouse had reached a chilly 35 degrees.

The delivery of 250 gallons of oil by an anonymous dealer rescued Mrs. Anne Carbone and her two children, 9 and 11, who had been unable to obtain oil to heat their house on Howell's Turnpike.

Mrs. Carbone's plight was reported in a newspaper, and Michael Gavin, a Monroe builder, persuaded a friend in Middletown to deliver oil to the family.

Mrs. Carbone began buying oil last December from the A.C. Howell Co. in Howells on a C.O.D. basis but has not been able to get oil from them since May.

According to a report in the Middletown Times Herald Record, Howell attempted to make a delivery recently but was upset to find Mrs. Carbone not at home and he refused to return.

The woman had sought help from the Public Service Commission in Albany as well as the Orange County Department of Consumer Affairs, but was told that neither agency could help her.

Many Presidential Hopefuls

Preliminary Maneuvering Underway for '76

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1976 presidential campaign has already started, three years before the next election and one year after politicians vowed to prevent a repetition of the seemingly endless 1972 campaign.

If anything, the preliminary maneuvering is ahead of the 1972 pace with both parties involved in the initial soundings.

The basic reason for the advance planning is a belief that it takes several years to put together the kind of organization needed to capture the presidency, and a fear that any candidate who delays may find someone else has gotten there first.

The early start indicates that the long 1972 campaign of Sen. George McGovern, in which he declared formal candidacy a full year ahead of the usual starting time, may become the rule next time around.

Among the Republicans, Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, former Democrat John Connally of Texas and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois have started moving around the country, making speeches and extending their GOP contacts.

They will likely be active next year in the 1974 congressional and gubernatorial campaign, along with Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, who has decided against seeking a third term. Already the favorite of GOP conservatives, he plans to launch an ambitious national speaking tour in 1975.

Percy is the farthest advanced towards a candidacy. He has announced formation of an Exploratory Committee to guide his decision and has started research on a possible race.

Other GOP possibilities such as Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee and former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson have received valuable television exposure but have yet to make any overt moves toward candidacy.

Among Democrats, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington is the most active. Some say he never stopped campaigning after his unsuccessful 1972 bid.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota says he is interested, has been traveling around a lot and is expected to launch some kind of campaign committee next year.

Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen of Texas has raised a $300,000 kitty to finance his work as chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee while saying he will decide at the end of 1974 whether a presidential bid is feasible.

Aides to Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace make clear he will run if his health permits. They have avidly followed the work of a party commission selection rules.

Two others who have expressed interest, Gov. John J. Gilligan of Ohio and Sen. Birch E. Bayh of Indiana, face 1974 tests at the polls before they can decide whether to embark on a presidential race.

The biggest question mark for the Democrats is Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts. He leads the early poll but has done little and indicates he won't move before 1975.

Kennedy is likely to be the most active of all Democratic campaigners in 1974. However, he has also indicated he might run for re-election to the Senate in 1976 rather than seek the presidency.

As for the remaining veterans of the 1972 campaign, McGovern denied a recent report he might run again, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey says he won't seek the nomination but could be available at a deadlocked convention, and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie indicates he could be interested.

Then, there are the dark horses, Gov. Daniel Walker of Illinois, for example, recently raised some money in Beverly Hills, Calif., a traditional financial stop for Democrats. The assumption was he had a national race in mind.

None of this takes into account the likelihood that events between now and 1976 may eliminate some contenders while propelling others into the race.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford had hardly been considered a contender before President Nixon tapped him for the vice presidency. He says he won't run for anything in 1976, but other Republicans think three years as vice president — or even some time as president — will change his mind.

MVP Jackson Still Has Plenty of Goals

NEW YORK (UPI) — "There are lots of things I can do in the game that I haven't done."

An aging star, perhaps? A retiring veteran, maybe? No, just the small-boy enthusiasm of 27-year-old Reggie Jackson, selected unanimously Tuesday as the American League's Most Valuable Player this year, and thinking he still has more to do to prove himself.

Jackson, only the seventh player in the 43-year history of MVP awards to win without a dissenting vote, led the American League with 32 homers and 117 runs batted in this year and batted .293. He previously was named MVP of the Oakland A's second straight World Series victory as well.

But, Jackson said, he still has plenty to do, and he enumerated some of his goals:

"I have not hit .300 yet," he told a news conference in Oakland. "I have not hit 50 home runs. I have not stolen 40 bases. I have not won two MVP's. And I have not been on three world championship teams."

". . . Until I do them, I will be shortchanging myself, the fans, the owners, the team and everybody else," Jackson added. "I would like to be the best. Whether I can or not remains to be seen."

Named first on every ballot cast by a 24-man committee — two in each AL city — of the Baseball Writers Association of America, Jackson polled 336 points to easily outdistance runnerup Jim Palmer of the Baltimore Orioles.

His selection also capped a comeback of sorts for Jackson, who was forced to miss the 1972 World Series when he injured his leg stealing home with the decisive run in the final game of the playoffs. Because of that, he was so intent on playing this year he shrugged off a crackpot death threat and played in the Series under the constant watch of a bodyguard.

Palmer, the league's Cy Young Award winner as the top pitcher after four successive 20-victory seasons, drew 11 second-place votes and 172 points while centerfielder Amos Otis of Kansas City, a .300 hitter, had 112.

Rod Carew of Minnesota, who won his third batting title this year with a .350 average, Detroit reliever John Hiller and Oakland third baseman Sal Bando each had 83 points.

The previous unanimous selections were Denny McLain of Detroit (1968), Orlando Cepeda, St. Louis -- the only unanimous winner ever in the NL —(1967), Frank Robinson, Baltimore (1966), Mickey Mantle, New York Yankees (1956), Al Rosen, Cleveland (1953) and Hank Greenberg, Detroit (1935).

A six-year veteran, Jackson is approaching the $100,000 salary level but refused to say if that's what he would ask owner Charlie Finley for 1974. Jackson has been an outspoken critic of Finley's, particularly when the A's owner created such a ruckus with his off-the-field antics at the World Series.

"That's like the sun coming up," Jackson said of his six-figure goal. "I'm eventually going to make $100,000 a year, and I figure on going on right past that."

Jackson said, however, he wouldn't ask for an "unreasonable" figure like $175,000 or $200,000, and his reaction to the unanimous MVP vote was a tip-off on that.

"I didn't think anyone could be that valuable," Jackson said.

MVP REGGIE JACKSON tells newsmen he was not surprised at receiving the award, but was surprised that it was unanimous. The Oakland A's slugger said there are plenty of things left for him to accomplish. (UPI)

Bob Mathias Seeks Peace For the Amateur Athlete

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bob Mathias is a doer.

The Congressman from California, Olympic decathlon champion in 1948 and 1952, figures it's time to put an end to the power battle that has raged between amateur sports organizations in the United States for the past decade and more.

With this aim in mind he sponsored a bill in Congress which would make it possible for an athlete to compete in international Olympic-type sports without fear of reprimand from the AAU, NCAA or similar organizations. The bill has 18 co-sponsors and Mathias hopes it will go before the Judiciary Committee very soon and become law in 1974.

The sponsors of the bill hope this will put an end to the feud which has raged among the United States Olympic Committee (USOC), the AAU and the NCAA for control of amateur sport which, in recent years, has hurt the reputation of American athletes overseas.

Mathias remains optimistic although men in high places, including Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Robert Kennedy, failed when they tried to mediate the dispute.

"We can only try," he said Tuesday when he met with newsmen in New York to explain what he was trying to do.

"We want to give protection to the athlete and shield him from authority," Mathias said. "We want him to be free to compete in meets of his choice without fear of being reprimanded, suspended or whatever. We want America to field its strongest available team when it enters the international arena."

Mathias, who won his gold medals in London and Helsinki, has attended every Olympiad since those far off days of 1948 when he competed in a British capital which was trying to recover from the ravages of war. The showing of the U.S. team in the '72 Games at Munich was the worst in his experience.

"I don't want government interference like that which is exercised in Eastern Europe. But I want it made possible for us to send our best," he said.

Under the terms of the Mathias bill, athletes would have the right to participate in an Olympic sport in international competition unhindered by feuding sports organizations. The athlete would be given a forum in which to obtain relief from any abuse of his, or her, right to compete. Further, a procedure would be established by which a governing body in a sport can be replaced by another national sports organization which can provide a better program in that sport.

Grievances will be taken before the American Arbitration Association, an independent, non-government, organization.

The Mathias bill has the support of the USOC. It was the second to be presented this year, an earlier bill by Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., having been returned for modifications.

Mathias explained the difference between his bill and that of Tunney, thus: "I believe Sen. Tunney's bill was too encompassing. The original draft probably was rejected because it contained too much federal bureaucracy."

Girls Versus Boys?

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Ted Wagner, executive director of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association (PIAA), said today his group was prepared to fight a suit filed by Pennsylvania to force the PIAA to permit girls to compete with boys in all high school sports, except football and wrestling.

The state suit, filed in Commonwealth Court Tuesday, was based on the Fourteenth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution and on the Pennsylvania Constitution.

John C. Pittenger, secretary of the state's Department of Education and the Commission on the Status of Women, was the prime mover behind the suit.

"This is the manifestation of about a year of Secretary Pittenger's efforts to put sexism into athletics," Wagner said. "He wants bisexual participation. The development of our program indicates that the PIAA would bring more women into athletics. We advocate separate but equal programs."

At present, the only interscholastic sports in which girls compete with boys is riflery.

Sports specifically included for sex integration in the suit were cross country, basketball, soccer, baseball, hockey, lacrosse, gymnastics, swimming, riflery, vollyeball, golf, tennis and track.

Wagner said the PIAA, with almost 1,200 member schools, including 40 parochial schools, is a national leader because of its "progressive girls athletic program."

"But if girls are allowed to play on boys teams, any rational citizen must agree that boys will be permitted to play on girls teams," Wagner said. "While few if any girls will be able to compete with boys in basketball, swimming, or soccer, no one can deny that boys would replace girls on their own teams if regulations were limited."

The state's suit said football and wrestling were exempt because they "necessitate foreceful physical contact with the person of one's opponent for the purpose of physically overpowering the opponent."

Secretariat For Tourists

PARIS, Ky. (AP) — Starting Monday, tourists will be allowed on Claiborne Farm, one of the biggest horse farms in the Bluegrass, to see the first Triple Crown winner in 25 years, Secretariat.

"We are trying this on an experimental basis to try to accomodate the public," farm president Seth Hancock said Tuesday.

The gates will be opened for about half an hour at a time at 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, he said, and 15 or 20 cars will be allowed inside each time.

Russell Has Kept His Sense of Humor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bill Russell lost the game but retained his sense of humor.

Russell has been losing a lot of games since coming out of NBA retirement to coach the Seattle SuperSonics. Tuesday night's 104-102 defeat by the New York Knicks was his 12th setback in 17 games with Seattle.

"How do you like coaching, Bill, after a four-year layoff?"

"Coaching is a lot of fun, except on game nights.

"Bill, there was a sign hanging from the rafters at Madison Square Garden reading: 'Impeach Russell.'"

"Well, I'm in good company."

"Uh, Bill, is it true the sports writers in Boston will be giving you a party when you make your first appearance there as a coach since leaving the Celtics?"

"Yeah and they'll probably hold it in Boston Bay."

The jovial Russell, who is known to be taciturn on occasion, instituted a policy of keeping the dressing room closed to newsmen after Seattle games. He wouldn't shift base after the narrow loss to the Knicks but upon request sent out Spencer Haywood, Fred Brown and Bud Stallworth, all in various stages of undress.

The trio was involved in a last ditch play that Russell hoped would tie the game. With three seconds left, Stallworth passed inbounds to Brown, who threw the ball to Haywood, but the buzzer rang before the Sonic center could get off a shot.

"That was the fastest three seconds I've ever experienced," said Brown. "The countdown should have started when I got the ball, but it looked like it began when the ref handed the ball to Stallworth for the inbounds pass."

Russell said he keeps the press away from his players because "they're a young team and its better not have them say something they'll be sorry for later. I may change my mind about the closed door as the seson goes on."

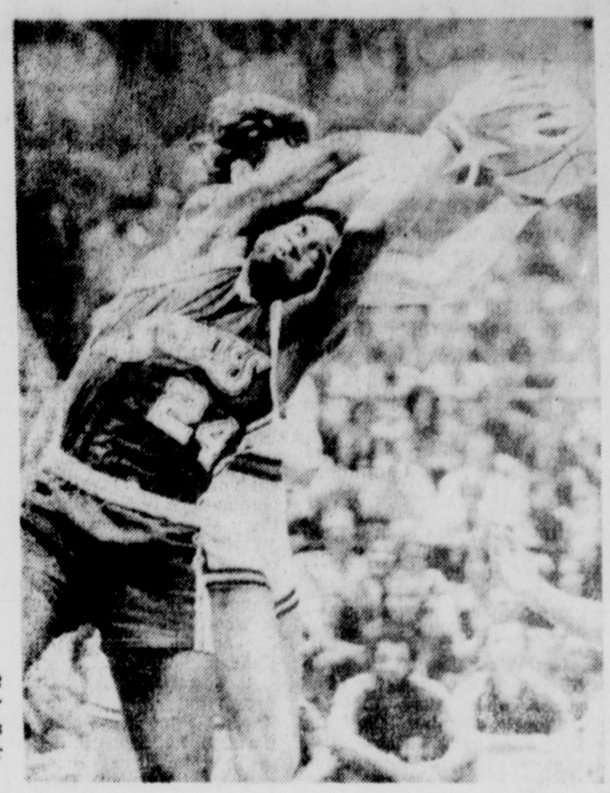

The Knickks had to hustle for the victory. Walt Frazier scored a game-high 26 points, 20 of them in the first half. Bill Bradley chipped in with 22, including three key baskets in the fourth period after Seattle whittled an 11-point deficit to two points.

Haywood, still trying to make the adjustment from forward to center, was the Sonics' big boom with 25 points and John Brisker, who scored his first 11 points in the second period, had 20.

Russell has faith in his ability to swing Seattle toward a winning record. He recounts that Boston had an older and veteran team when he coached the Celtics. The average age of the Sonics is 25 and only Dick Snyder among the starters has been around for any length of time.

Seattle is the only team among the 1960's expansion clubs failing to make the NBA playoffs. It doesn't look as if that ill fate will change this season, but Bill Russell has faith in the future.

STEAL — Spencer Haywood (24) of the Seattle Supersonics, has the ball grabbed right out of his hands by Phil Jackson of the Knicks as they both go for a rebound during NBA game at Madison Square Garden Tuesday night. The Knickks held on to post a 104-102 victory. (UPI)

Scott Sidetracks Chicago's Express

By United Press International

The Chicago express was finally sidetracked by Charlie Scott.

Scott, the National Basketball Association's 13th leading scorer, poured in 38 points Tuesday night as the Phoenix Suns ended a 12-game Chicago winning streak 116-108 and braked their own losing skein at 10 straight.

The Phoenix thin man, who stands 6-foot-6 and weighs 175 pounds, tallied almost half his total in the opening period when he scored 17 points. The Suns led 59-43 at intermission.

Chicago, dropping two games behind Milwaukee in the Midwest Division, closed to within two points at 103-102 with four minutes remaining but couldn't sustain the drive. Bob Love led the Bulls with 32 points.

Milwaukee beat Portland 108-100 and owns the longest NBA winning string of the season at 13 straight. The Bucks widened a slim 50-48 halftime lead to 85-72 as they hit on 76 per cent of their shots in the third quarter and were ahead by 15 points in the fourth period before Coach Larry Costello sent in the reserves. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led Milwaukee with 21 points and Geoff Petrie scored 23 for Portland.

In other games, New York edged Seattle 104-102, Buffalo stopped Atlanta 121-114, Golden State downed Cleveland 128-115 and Houston beat Philadelphia 97-83.

Bob McAdoo recovered a career-high 28 rebounds and scored 31 points as Buffalo, cracking a six-game losing streak, remained 2½ games behind second place New York in the Atlantic Division. Pete Maravich of Atlanta, the league's leading scorer, also scored 31 points.

Rick Barry scored at better than a point-a-minute clip as he hit 43 points in 37 minutes for Golden State. The former NBA scoring champion hit 7-of-10 field goal tries in the third period and wound up with 22 points for the quarter. The Warriors' Clyde Lee suffered a leg injury and will undergo surgery today. Austin Carr had the hot hand for Cleveland with 25 points.

Houston won its first home game of the season as Rudy Tomjanovich's 27 points and 16 rebounds by Don Smith helped the Rockets beat Philadelphia. Tom Van Arsdale scored 17 points for the 76ers before fouling out with three minutes left in the game.

RETURN TO ACTION — Controversial Derek Sanderson, in his first appearance of the season dressed in AHL Boston Braves' uniform, starts puck down ice in Tuesday's game. Sanderson injured his back in training camp with the NHL Bruins and was sent down to the Braves to get in shape. Sanderson scored a goal and had an assist as the Braves beat Rochester, 4-1. (UPI)

Wing Switch Creates Big Night for Lowell

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's a good bet that Pittsburgh Penguins Coach Ken Schinkle will keep Lowell MacDonald at left wing for a while, considering the forward's three-goal performance after shifting from the right side Tuesday night.

MacDonald had been playing right wing for center Syl Apps and Al McDonough, but the switch produced his three goals in 4:17 of the second period and sparked the Penguins 5-2 National Hockey League triumph over the Minnesota North Stars.

In the NHL's only other game Tuesday night, the St. Louis Blues got three goals from Garry Unger to defeat the Vancouver Blazers 6-1.

In the World Hockey Association, the red-hot Edmonton Oilers blanked the Los Angeles Sharks 4-0; the Houston Aeros tripped the Minnesota Fighting Saints 5-2; the Cleveland Crusaders topped the Chicago Cougars 5-2, and the Vancouver Blazers downed the Winnipeg Jets 5-3.

Blues 6, Canucks 1

Garry Unger broke out of a slight scoring slump in a big way Tuesday night.

"It's much easier after you score the first goal," said Unger after his three-goal performance led the Blues past the Canucks 6-1.

Oilers 4, Sharks 0

Two first-period goals by Ron Climie and the second shutout of the season by Jack Norris led Edmonton to its 11th victory in a row — a 4-0 triumph over Los Angeles — and a WHA record for consecutive winning games.

Crusaders 5, Cougars 2

Two goals by Gary Jarrett paced the Crusaders' 5-2 conquest of the Cougars, but Chicago player-coach Pat Stapleton saw a lot of good things despite the loss that ended his team's six-game winning streak.

Aeros 5, Fighting Saints 2

Andre Hinse scored two twice while Frank Hughes, Ted Taylor and Murray Hall added one goal each to help Houston to a 5-2 victory over Minnesota. Wayne Connelly's 10th and 11th accounted for the Minnesota scoring.

Blazers 5, Jets 3

The Vancouver Blazers won their first game in nearly a month on Jim Adair's power-play goal midway through the third period. The Blazers had lost 10 in a row since an Oct. 20 victory over Chicago, but Don O'Donoghue's empty-net goal with 40 seconds left ended the slump.

Coldstream Wins Yonkers Feature

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coldstream pounded home in 2:03 2-5 to take the featured mile at Yonkers Raceway Tuesday before 13,050 New York State harness racing fans.

Guided by Lucien Fontaine, Coldstream notched a half-length victory over Knee Pants, who was followed by B.T. Keith.

The 8-year-old son of Stephen Smith paid $11.00 for the win of the $5,500 event.

At Batavia Downs Tuesday, Diamond Bet moved to the outside at the head of the stretch in the featured ninth race to top the 8-5 favorite, Banners Prince by a half-length. Our Oscar finished third in the $1,900 claiming handicap pace. Driven by Larry Manges, the winner covered the mile in 2:08 1-5 and returned $6.40.

Nets Swamp Memphis Tams

By United Press International

The New York Nets litter-ly swamped Memphis Tuesday night and protested the "dirty" tactics used by Tams' fans.

A crowd of 7,662, largest to see the Tams play in two years, heaped debris on the court several times during the game, an action that led to the ejection of Nets' guard Brian Taylor for protesting the littering too vehemently.

Julius Erving swept everything in the basket that came his way as he scored 27 points and hauled in nine rebounds. He also blocked four shots and contributed nine assists as the Nets won their second straight game, 108-92, after dropping nine in a row.

The crowd came to see to former Memphis State favorites, Larry Kenon of New York and Larry Finch of the Tams. Kenon outscored his ex-teammate 14-13. George Thompson was high for Memphis with 20 points.

In the only other American Basketball Association action, the Denver Rockets rode Ralph Simpson's 29 points to a 127-109 victory over the Indiana Pacers, the second best defensive team in the league.

Denver, outrebounding Indiana 57-44, moved into a first place tie with Utah in the ABA West. George McGinnis scored a game-high 39 points for the Pacers, who dropped 1½ games behind the division leaders.

Gerlak and Gibby

Alex Gerlak likes the news coming out of Pinehurst, N.C. these days. The veteran Twaalfskill professional's old golfing buddy, Gibby Gilbert, had a five-stroke lead going into today's fifth round of the 144-hole $500,000 World Open Golf Tournament.

"I think he can win it and that's all he needs to establish himself as a consistent winner on the tour," said Gerlak. "Up to now, he's been a good but erratic golfer, but he always had the potential. He's had two things going against him, financial insecurity and an explosive temperament."

Gerlak's association with Gilbert dates back a few years when they met at Hillcrest Country Club in Hollywood, Fla. where Alex winters with his brother, Joe Gerlak.

"My brother Joe had tipped me off about Gibby," Alex recalled. "The first time I saw him hit the ball and play a few holes, I asked Gibby, What are you doing here, why aren't you on the tour?"

Gilbert hesitated and equivocated a little. "Oh, I tried the tour a couple times, but I didn't make it. If I ever get a real backer, I'll go back." Gibby, of course, eventually got his backer but his career never really got off the ground. He won only one tour stop and was on the verge of throwing it in early this year.

"The first time we played I beat Gibby in nine holes," said Alex, "and it must have got him mad. He asked for a rematch the next day and proceeded to birdie the first five holes."

"Gibby hits the ball as good as anybody on the tour," Alex points out. "He can fire those long, crisp irons to the green and is an adequate putter. He blew the Doral Open with bogeys on the last five holes and had a real shot at Jack Nicklaus in the PGA but blew it. I think that if he wins the World Open, he'll be on his way."

Five area golf pros have submitted their annual nominations to Golf Digest for the Most Improved Club Member citations. Bill Reilly of Wiltwyck named A.J. Maneen, his protege, and Nancy Winter. Jim Hutchins of Woodstock nominated Matti J. Antilla and Pat Mac Fadden.

At Twaalfskill, Alex Gerlak designated Tom Glynn and Karen Pitcock, while Bid Cordone at Sawyerkill gave the nod to Esther Hendricks and Ken Maxwell. Down in Rondout, the winners were George Blake and Joan Kuster.

In most instances, the club pros worked with the men and women's handicap chairmen to decide the most improved players. A.J. Maneen is the outstanding player in the field, a young golfer with tremendous potential.

Whether A.J. is the longest 'straight hitter' in Ulster County is a moot question. But one Wiltwyck man is quoted as saying, he would bet on A.J. against any golfer in the area — five consecutive drives for total distance — with the ball in play. Might make an interesting contest in 1974.

If the golf courses are made available, the 1974 Ulster County Amateur championship will be played at the four Kingston area layouts — Sawyerkill, Twaalfskill, Woodstock and Wiltwyck in that order. A completely new format for eligibility will be tried next year, with the official county committee meeting right after the first of the year to iron out the details. Ulster County Women's Golf Association has finally decided to try something they've been thinking about for a long time. In 1974, they'll split the field at two courses, then meet for the ceremonies at a designated club. For some unexplained reason, the split-schedule didn't work out in 1973.

The Northeastern New York PGA is re-shuffling its priorities for 1974. It plans to decrease the number of tournaments to 14, with nine to be played on Mondays and the remainder, involving club members, on Fridays. The fewer the tournaments, the higher the purses, is the current PGA thinking.

The Woodstock Open, which is held the third Monday in July every year, represents the highest purse — $400 — during the regular season. It could go up to $500 in 1974. More than 110 golfers applied for the 96 places available in the 1973 renewal.

The county golf world has been saddened by the tragic and untimely death of Mike Gorman of Rondout. A 10-handicapper, he was an enthusiastic club enthusiast at Rondout where he was president of the men's golf association and a winner in his flight and the men's league competition. We extend our condolences to his widow, Rosalie Gorman, a charming young lady, who in her own right is regarded as one of the future stars in Ulster County women's golf.

There Is a 14th—Alex Hannum

By TRACY RINGOLSBY

DENVER (UPI) — The bald eagle is an endangered species.

According to the World Almanac there are 13 such species in the United States. According to pro basketball followers there is a 14th —Alex Hannum.

Hannum is from the old school of basketball. One of all-night train rides and hard-nosed defense. One of player devotion and few financial rewards.

"We were run on shoestring operations back then," said Hannum, who now serves as president-general manager-coach of the Denver Rockets. "One man practically ran the whole front office. It was a day-to-day affair."

But now pro basketball is a multi-year, multi-million-dollar, no-cut contract affair. That's something Hannum, whose best pay day during a nine-year career was $8,500, can't understand.

"I've been a little disturbed the past few years," said the bald Hannum, as he lounges in his office easy chair admiring the John J. Audubon picture of a bald eagle on his office wall. "The players aren't interested in the game of basketball so much any more. Everyone is worried about money."

And what has the former forward for USC even more flighty than the mercinary attitudes is the lack of a close relationship between the players and management. The 6-7, 220-pound former hatchet man will never forget the way he and his Syracuse Nats' teammates felt about owner Danny Biasone back in the late 1940s and early '50s.

"I will always remember Danny's birthday during my second year," said Hannum. "We were playing in Denver and the whole team went together and took Danny out to dinner at an Italian restaurant and then we chipped in to buy him a cowboy hat."

A broad smile came across Hannum's face and his eyes slowly glide from the Audubon picture to the opposite wall of his office, where a picture hangs of each team he has played with and coached over the past 25 years.

Hannum still strives for that type of relationship, but usually without success. When he has a function now he has to make it mandatory or else the players wont show.

And then there are incidents like last season when he promised the team a party if they won 15 road games. Denver wound up with 17 victories away from home but Hannum's party flooped.

"I thought it would be nice to laugh, joke and just get together after the season," he said. "But we didn't have the party because no one would agree on a time or place but the players still wanted the money."

So Hannum gave each Rocket $20 to take their wives out.

And then there was the playoffs last year when the players almost voted trainer Lloyd Williams out of a share of the playoff money.

"For just a couple of hundred dollars they were willing to break a guy's heart," he said. "I don't know about that."

Hannum realizes basketball has changed over the years, and he hasn't let it pass him by as shown by the NBA championship his Philadelphia 76ers won during the 1966-67 season when they were 68-13 and the ABA title won by his Oakland Oaks in 1968-69 with a 60-18 record.

But that doesn't stop him from thinking the good old days were the better.

Players of the Week

This week th reeman salutes the following high school football playes:

OFFENSE

Raymond Gay, Kingston High School defensive back turned quarterback who sparked the Maroons to an 18-0 victory over Saugerties by bootlegging for a pair of touchdowns.

DEFENSE

Stan Foo, Ellenville High's rugged 6-2, 195 pound denfensive end, displayed his muscle by leading the charge in a scoreless tie against Red Hook. Foo was th echief intimidator of a defense which allowed the Raiders to go no farther than the Ellenville 43 all day.

See Sunday's Freeman for our annual All-County football team.

Checking Up on Hoople

You've got to hand it to Major Amos B. Hoople, The Freeman's veteran pigskin Prognosticator, who completed his best high school season ever Saturday with five correct, zero wrong, and one nasty old tie. That lifted the Major's final record to 47-12-2, a whopping .797 percentage!

The Old Boy Himself has left Hoople Manor for a well-earned vacation at some far-away retreat, but before he left he did some quick figuring and came up with the results of the important college football games yet to be played. He'll have those in Friday's Freeman.

It Honored Kris Kemmer . . . But

Billie Jean Stole the Show

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kris Kemmer, her long blond hair momentarily obscuring her vision, tossed her pretty head and the tresses fell back.

Honored as "the most improved player on the women's pro tour", the 21-year-old from San Diego had been asked if she would play on the U.S. teams in either Federation or Wightman Cup matches.

"Well," Kris said, "I'd like to represent our country, of course, but I wouldn't want to be representing just the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association. I think maybe I've been talked into Billie Jean's way of thinking."

Seated at the head table for the luncheon honoring Miss Kemmer, Billie Jean King smiled.

Billie had fielded the same question, when, as she concluded her latest pitch for Women's Lib, she said that she too would play for the United States in the two major women's team competition, but only if "I could feel I was really playing for my country, not for the USLTA or any promoter, but just for my country. If I were sure of that, then I'd say 'OK' right away."

For Miss Kemmer, the $5,000 check from Max-Pax was a real surprise, but in the voting she had been a convincing winner over Janet Newberry of LaJolla, Calif., Kathy Kuykendall of Miami, Fla., and Joyce Schwickert of Las Vegas.

Kris opted for professional play three years ago, and the road was not an easy one. Like so many other girls with high tennis aspirations, she had to qualify for major events on the pro tour, and in 1973 she did just that. Once in the field, she did remarkably well. She reached the semifinals at Newport, the quarters in St. Louis and Chicago, and, with Laura Dupont, captured the doubles title in Tokyo.

As is always the case, Billie Jean dominated the luncheon, although she did try to turn the spotlight on Kris. It was a busy day in the midtown restaurant, and BJ had to excuse herself to have pictures taken with O.J. Simpson, the leading pro football rusher of the moment who was being honored at another function.

But Billie is always Billie, and she was proud of what the award to Miss Kemmer meant —at least to Ms. King. "I've always insisted that the development of young players is what tennis needs most," Billie declaimed. "The USLTA, the promoters haven't done it. We of the Women's Tennis Association are proving youngsters can be developed through our tournaments, and in Kris Kemmer we have more than proved that point."

According to Billie, the next big step in bringing out the best of the new crop of women players will be World Team Tennis. Billie, player-coach of the Philadelphia franchise in the new league, sees in the team concept a great way for newcomers to improve their game.

"They can come along without the pressures of tournament play," Billie says. "They know they have their money coming from the team. They won't have to worry about money, and they can concentrate on improvng their game. It is with us that players can really be developed."

Players who can represent the U.S. in Federation and Wightman play?

BJ took a deep breath.

"As I have said before . . ."

Yes, Billie, you surely have.

UCCC Pinmen In 3rd Place

SUFFERN — "We still can't get the bowling we should have," seemed like an appropriate comment by UCCC bowling coach Al DiBernardo, after Ulster's second poor showing a row in the Mid-Hudson Conference bowling season.

"We have a strong team, but can't put it together," he added, as the Senators managed only 2548 and fell into third place behind Orange and Rockland in the cumulative standings in the MH-C.

With top series of 2724, Orange County leads with an aggregate of 5354 after two weeks of play. Rockland is second with 5309 and Ulster third at 5160.

Orange compiled its 2724 off games of 909, 950 and 865, while Ulster stumbled to 2548 and 827, 830, 819.

Chris Schick turned in a respectable 202-555 to pace Ulster but got little help from his teammates. Ken O'Connor added 508.

The Ulster score:

UCCC (2548)

Soodak	167	158	181	506
Schaefer	157			157
O'Connor	179	162	167	508
Sinnott	122	159	174	455
Schick	202	161	192	555
Mayone		190	177	367
	827	830	891	2548

Orange County has taken over the lead with a six-game total of 5354, an average of 178 per man per game. The Colts rolled 2632 in their opening series.

Standings to date:

Orange	2630	2724	5354
Rockland	2632	2677	5309
Ulster	2612	2548	5160
Dutchess	2552	2351	4903
Sullivan	2384	2371	4755

Korfanta Named

PARK CITY, Utah (AP) — Karen Korfanta has been named assistant director at the U.S. Ski team's national training center here, it was announced Tuesday.

Miss Korfanta, 28, of Pinedale, Wyo., is assistant to director Willy Schaeffler at the center which opens Dec. 2.

A former University of Denver ski coach and U.S. Alpine team coach, Miss Korfanta was named to the 1968 Olympic ski team, but an injury kept her from competing at the Grenoble, France, games.

Gilbert Planning To Go for Broke

PINEHURST, N.C. (UPI) — With $100,000 at stake, Gibby Gilbert has no intention of going conservative.

"I want to shoot for a real good round Wednesday and see if I can't increase my lead," Gilbert said before starting round five of the marathon $500,000 World Open Golf Championship. "Maybe I can give myself some real coasting room."

Gilbert, who has had to struggle to survive during his first six years on the tour, has put himself into excellent position to capture the richest purse in golf history by shooting a four-under-par 280 for the first half of this eight-round tournament. As a result, he carried a fat five-stroke advantage over Al Geiberger and Tom Watson when play resumed today after a two-day break.

Inevitably, and despite his constant reminder that "there's still a long way to go, the subject of money wends its way into any conversation with Gilbert.

"It's unreal," says the 32-year-old native Tennessean of the $100,000 jackpot that could be his come Saturday. And then jokingly, "Some people have to work six months for that kind of money, don't they?"

But the pressure of the money, along with the incidental task of racking up only the second victory of his career, doesn't seem to faze Gilbert.

"I haven't felt any of the pressure during the two days off," he said. "In fact, I enjoyed a couple of relaxed rounds under the sun. When I go out Wednesday I suppose I'll feel some pressure, but normally I play better under those conditions."

Gilbert is confident, too, since all of the final four rounds will be played over the No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club, a 7,007-yard, par-71 layout he conquered both times he played it in the first half of the tournament with a record-breaking 62 and then a 70.

Even when he toured No. 2 for practice rounds Monday and Tuesday, in a group consisting of Sam Snead, J.C. Snead and Jerry Heard, Gilbert had scores of 71 and 67.

Speculation among the pros all last week was that even-par for eight rounds could win the tournament, and, indeed, Gilbert is the only player from the starting field of 240 who as much as matched par over 72 holes. Right now, he feels similar performance by him would be good enough.

"I shot 280 the first four rounds and I'll be happy to shoot 280 again the next four," he said.

With warm, sunny temperatures the last two days, Gilbert said the condition of the greens has improved. As a result, he expects to see better putting from the final field of 74 survivors and lower scores.

Allen Miller, who shared the third-round lead with Gilbert before fading to a 76 on Sunday, was fourth at 286 starting the day, followed one stroke farther back by Heard, Bob Menne and Bobby Mitchell.

Chamber Wants Giants

NEW YORK (UPI) — David L. Yunich, chairman of the board of the New York Chamber of Commerce, wants to keep the New York Giants in New York, and his chances haven't been hurt by recent developments concerning the Hackensack Meadowlands complex.

Tuesday Yunich sent a telegram to Wellington Mara, president of the Giants, indicating chamber interest in actively backing a program to keep the Giants in New York.

"Urge you reconsider any decision to relocate the Giants out of New York City," said Yunich. "Loss of the team would deprive New York of a tradition that has lent immeasurable color and excitement to the city through the years.

"Be assured that the New York Chamber of Commerce and Industry, acting as the city's chief business spokesman, stands ready to assist you in every way in assuring that your playing site requirements are satisfied. We would welcome the opportunity of discussing possibilities with you at your earliest convenience."

The Giants are scheduled to start playing in New Jersey in 1975, with their home games in New Haven in 1974.

Coach Mallory's Rockin' the Cradle

COACH OF THE WEEK—Bill Mallory, head football coach of Miami, Ohio, University, was selected UPI Coach of the Week after his Redskins won over Kent Stae, 20-10, last Saturday to give Miami the Mid American championship. (UPI)

OXFORD, Ohio (UPI) — Bill Mallory is "rockin' the cradle" and he couldn't be happier.

Mallory is head football coach at Miami University, which has spawned such outstanding coaches as Woody Hayes, Ara Parseghian, Bo Schembechler, John Pont, Weeb Ewbank and Paul Brown and proudly calls itself the nation's "Cradle of Coaches."

Mallory can feel right at home in the cradle this week after he led undefeated Miami to a 20-10 victory over Kent State in last weekend's Mid-American Conference "game of the year."

The win gave the Redskins their first undisputed conference title since 1958, sent them to the Tangerine Bowl and led to the selection of Mallory today as UPI National "Coach of the Week."

"This is the greatest week of my life," the exuberant 38-year-old Mallory said. "Saturday's win was the biggest in my career. It was a long, hard road but we finally took the title."

In each of his four previous seasons at Miami, Mallory posted 7-3 records —good years, but not quite good enough to win the Mid-American Conference, a league that is gaining prestiage around the country.

Mallory, a football star at Miami in the mid-1950s and later an assistant to Woody Hayes at Ohio State, says he teaches "pride" as much as football skills.

"Pride is what really is important. Anytime my players go into a game or a practice, I want them to take pride in themselves. I want them to believe in themselves.

"Pride also brings about a good, hungry attitude and this year's team really has it," he added. "They're hungry —they wanted to bring the title to Miami."

Mallory's order of priorities for developing a good football team differ from many coaches. Instead of emphasizing offense or defense, Mallory gives top priority to kicking.

"The kicking game is the most important, followed by defense and then the offense," Mallory says. By the kicking game, I just don't mean field goals or punts. We spend a lot of time practicing coverage on kickoffs and punts.

"I don't think some coaches realize it, but an awful lot of games are lost because of mistakes in the kicking game.

"Our game plan for Kent State revolved around the kicking game," Mallory explained. "We wanted to make sure (Gerald) Tinker, their Olympic speedster, didn't get any long punt returns. His returns have helped them win several games this year."

Mallory, who doesn't hesitate to use rough language to get his points across to players or reporters, may have wrapped up the conference title that eluded him for four years, but he's working just as hard as ever in practice this week.

"We've got two more goals to reach," he said. "Beat Cincinnati for a 10-0 record and then win the Tangerine Bowl."

After five good seasons at Miami, can Mallory be lured away as were his four predecessors —Hayes, Parseghian, Pont and Schembechler, who now lead Ohio State, Notre Dame, Northwestern and Michigan?

"It would take an awful good opportunity to get me away," says Mallory. I look upon the job here as one of the better ones in the country. The future looks promising here. I'm happy and I'm not out looking for a job."

In other words, Mallory has found the "cradle" comfortable.

Top Heisman Hopefuls Had Big Day

NEW YORK (UPI) — The big Heisman Trophy push is on and most of this year's leading candidates for college football's "most outstanding" award had impressive outings this past Saturday.

For example, even in a losing effort, Pittsburgh's sensational freshman Tony Dorsett ran for 209 yards against Notre Dame —the most ever against an Irish team—giving him 1,348 for the season.

The East's other Heisman candidate, Penn State's John Cappelletti, was also having an eventful afternoon versus a typically stubborn North Carolina State defense. Cappelletti raced for 220 yards and three touchdowns to earn himself a place on UPI's backfield of the week along with Wayne Bullock of Notre Dame, Billy Marek of Wisconsin and Xavier quarterback Tim Dydo.

Cappelletti, Penn State's 210-pound workhorse tailback, was a one-man gang against the Wolfpack, scoring on runs of 34, eight and 27 yards. His 220 total yards put him over the 1,000-mark for the second straight year, the first time ever for a Penn State back.

Said N.C. State coach Lou Holtz after the game: "Cappelletti is the best back we've seen and if he wins the Heisman, it surely wouldn't surprise me."

While Dorsett was doing his best to keep Pitt in the game against Notre Dame, the Irish's Bullock was scoring four touchdowns to keep the victory well within hand. Bullock, a 6-1, 233-pound junior fullback, scored on runs of 11, four and one yards and then completed his afternoon by taking a nine-yard pass from quarterback Tom Clements in the end zone. All told, Bullock wound up with 168 yards.

Marek, who has already made UPI's backfield once earlier this season, scored four touchdowns in Wisconsin's 35-7 romp over winless Iowa. A smallish (5-8, 180-pounds) sophomore, Marek scored on runs of 45, five, 32 and one yards and wound up with 203 total yards for the day—the second time this year he has surpassed the 200 mark. Marek now has 957 for the season.

Xavier hasn't won many football games in recent years, but it hasn't been the fault of their senior quarterback Dydo, who on Saturday guided the Musketeeers to their third win of the season, 40-36 over favored Northern Illinois, with five touchdown passes.

The 5-11, 183-poubd Dydo completed TD tosses of 22 and 12 yards to Mike Nocero, eight and seven yards to Terry Buda and another seven-yarder to Bob Pickard to offset another outstanding running day by Northern Illinois' Mark Kellar, who scored three TDs himself.

Selected for honorable mention this week were: Texas A&M running back Skip Walker (two TDs and 184 yards vs. SMU); Pacific halfback Willard Harrell (three TDs and 231 yards against Fresno State); Boston College tailback Mike Esposito (201 yards and two TDs versus West Virgina); and Houston fullback Leonard Parker (200 yards and a pair of TDs in the Cougars' 28-20 win over Colorado State).

Also cited were Nebraska quarterback David Humm (three TDs—one pass and two run—vs. Iowa State); Air Force quarterback Rich Haynie (three TD passes against Rutgers); North Texas State quarterback Tony Ford (four TD passes against Wichita State); and San Diego State quarterback Jesse Freitas (260 yards and one TD versus Long Beach State).

Viking Game Biggest Ever for Falcons

ATLANTA (UPI) — Nom Van Brocklin is fond of saying that no one NFL game is more important than another, that they all count the same in the won-loss columns.

But the Atlanta coach is kidding himself if he doesn't believe that next Monday night's game here against the Minnesota Vikings is the biggest game the Falcons have played in their eight-year history.

Even if they beat the unbeaten Vikings, the Falcons probably won't catch Los Angeles in the NFC West, and it might not even get them into the playoffs as a wild-card team.

But, a victory next Monday night would established what Van Brocklin has been saying since mid-summer: that the Atlanta Falcons have come of age as a solid NFL team.

Atlanta, with a five-game winning streak —it's the longest ever, is 6-3 for the first time and trail the Rams, whom they beat, 15-13, two Sundays ago, by only one game. They should have beaten San Francisco in Atlanta and be tied with the Rams at 7-2. But the 49ers won that game, 13-19, when, as Van Brocklin has since often said, "we failed to make the one big play we needed to win."

The Falcons had a run at the NFC title both in 1971, when they wound up 7-6-1, and again last year, when they were 7-7. But, both years, they failed to win the "big games" and came up short.

This failure tagged Atlanta with an unwanted reputation; a reputation of battling up to the doorstep of a division title, then coming up short when the chips were down.

The Falcons took some of the sting out of that reputation when they beat the Rams. But they've got to come up with a great game against the Vikings next Monday night if they want to erase it.

The Falcons-Vikings game has a storybook ring to it:

—Norm Van Brocklin spent his first six seasons as an NFL coach at the helm of the Vikings (1961-66).

Neborak Leads DCSL Scoring

KINGSTON

Hard-running Mike Neborak of champion Roy C. Ketcham High School was the individual scoring leader in the Dutchess County Scholastic League this season according to unofficial statistics compiled by the Daily Freeman.

Neborak scored eight touchdowns and added one two-point conversion for a total of 50 points, two better than Lyle Schuler of Kingston, who also had eight TDs but was not involved in any conversion plays. Schuler led the league going into the final week of the season, but he shutout against Saugerties while Neborak scored one of his team's two touchdowns in a 14-7 pennant clinching victory over John Jay.

Steve Fox of John Jay was third in the point parade with 42. He was followed by Joe Powell of Beacon and Mike Altomare of John Jay, each with 36. Sal Misasi of Saugerties, John Maneri of Ketcham and Jim Simmons of Roosevelt had 30 each, and Steve Engelhardt of Kingston had 28.

Unofficial team stats revealed that John Jay led the league in rushing yardage with 1,336. Next came Ketcham with 1,228, Kingston with 1,122, Saugerties with 1,013.

Passing yardage leader was Arlington with 988. Roosevelt was runnerup with 767. Saugerties and Kingston were next-to-last and last respectively.

Kingston led the DCSL in interceptions with 21, ten more than John Jay and Ketcham. The Maroons were also the most penalized team in the league with 490 yards, 95 more than Ketcham.

Statistics were based on home team game reports.

Kingston YMCA Beats Rockland In Swimming

KINGSTON

Kingston YMCA swim team defeated Rockland County Dolphins, 277-227, for its second straight win after an opening meet loss. Three swimmers contributed triples and two others scored doubles.

Kelly McCormick tripled in the 13-14 girls class, winning first in the 200-yard individual medley (2:36.7), 100 yard freestyle (1:06) and 100 yard butterfly (1:12.8).

Bob Winrow (15-17) led the 200 individual medley (2:13.8), 100 yard freestyle (:55.1) and 100 yard butterfly (1:00.2). Kirk Jacobs paced the 100 yard freestyle in 11-12 boys (1:05.3), 100 yard backstroke (1:17.7) and 50 yard butterfly (:33.6).

The two double winners were Charlie Mason, 8-up, in the 25 yard freestyle (:17.2) and 25 yard breaststroke (:20.9) and Denise Zimmerman, 11-12, in the 100 yard freestyle (1:05.6) and 100 yard backstroke (1:21.2.

Kingston hosts the Newburgh YMCA in its next meet.

Handle Bar Slips Off Scoring Pace

KINGSTON — The powerful Handle Bar quintet, unbeaten leaders of the YMCA "A" basketball league, dipped below their nearly-100 point scoring pace in their last outings. Maybe, it was because its top gun, A. J. Murphy, saw only limited action and didn't score a point. In any event, Service Battery gave the leaders a good battle before yielding, 86-77.

Don Komosa led the bars with 25 points, Tom Fiore had 18 and Rod Chando added 22. Five of the six Batterymen were in double figures, with Mark Toney hitting 20 and Jim Alba 16.

Lowe's Pools won a doubleheader, defeating Ramsey's Chargers, 78-56, and the Kingston Hospital, 68-59. In other action, Sportsmen's Grill edged Hawkins Raiders, 65-60, and Canfield's knocked off Edgar's, 72-66.

Gregg Kohls, the former Syracuse University ace, paced the Canfield win over Edgar's win 28 points. Coleman Link, late of UCCC, added 19. Bill Brady dunked 20 and George Cirvelli 15 for Edgar's.

Joe Bush's 22 points and 18 by John Meehan carried Sportsman' Grill past Hawkins Raiders. Dave Kane was top gun for the Raiders with 16 points and cousin Paul Kane added 13.

Larry Cook of the Hospital squad and Dan Jordan of Lowe's led their respective teams with 18 points each. In the second Lowe's game, Ron Burris potted 18 and Rocky Secreto rimmed 17 for the Chargers.

Gearhart's Strong Rally Wins Brut Open Tourney

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Butch Gearhart of Houston, rallying from a serious injury in a car accident early this year, knocked down an average of 238 pins to beat four foes in the finals of the $50,000 Brut Open Bowling Tournament Tuesday night.

Gearhart soared past Skee Foremsky, also of Houston, by a 245-181 margin in the championship match to take the $5,000 first prize and gain a berth in next year's $125,000 Firestone Tournament of Champions, pro bowling's biggest event. It was his first victory since early in 1972 and his fifth in Professional Bowler's Association play.

He won his first match in the five-man finals by a 259-246 margin over Johnny Petraglia, Brooklyn, N.Y., then defeated Earl Anthony, a seven-time Brut champion from Tacoma, Wash., by 236-174. Gearhart rolled 18 strikes in the two victories, including one streak of 11 in a row.

He then fired seven more strikes to edge Don Helling, St. Louis, 214-212, setting up his easy victory over Foremsky, whose 223 average led the way into the finals. Gearhart was in 17th place at the start of the match play semi-finals.

Foremsky won $2,800 for his second place finish, Helling earned $2,200, Anthony $1,800 and Petraglia $1,600.

Fiesta Bowl Wants Pitt

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pitt Panthers, climbing from rags to riches in less than one season under Coach Johnny Majors, have become the leading contenders for the Fiesta Bowl in Phoenix, Ariz.

"That's the way it stands right now," John Reid, Fiesta Bowl director, said Tuesday, adding that Pitt would receive a bid if the Panthers can defeat winless Army this Saturday.

The Panthers had been considered by the Liberty, Sun and Peach bowls until they lost 31-10 to Notre Dame last week.

Those bowls still have not completely tossed Pitt aside in their plans, but Majors indicated he wouldn't wait for their invitation.

A victory over Army would give Pitt a 6-3-1 record in its first season under Majors and insure the Panthers their first winning season in a decade.

Fiesta Bowl officials said Pitt moved to the top of the list after two other possible selections, Houston and Tulane, said they would play in another post-season game, the Astro Bluebonnet Bowl, if asked.

The winner of the Western Athletic Conference title will serve as host in the Dec. 21 Fiesta Bowl at Arizona State University.

Arizona and Arizona State will meet Nov. 24 in a game which will likely determine the WAC champion.

Junior Raiders Powerful Unit

RED HOOK — Red Hook High's junior varsity football team sounded its final warning for next year with a resounding 35-0 victory over Ellenville that completed a perfect season.

The little Raiders finished 9-0, and again Tim Moul was the big gun in the attack. Moul scored touchdowns on runs of three, 33, 80 and 46 yards, kicked three extra points, and amassed 124 yards rushing to boost his season total over the 1,000 yard mark.

In total offense Red Hook gained 263 yards while holding the Ellies to minus eight. It capped a year in which the Raiders ran up 284 points on opponents for a 35 per game average. Only Wallkill managed to score on the Raiders in a 33-32 season opener, and eight shutouts later the Red Hook point yield was 2.4 per game.

Ron Coon ran a three yard TD and Daryl Mosher posted a safety to complete Red Hook's scoring.

Following last year's 8-1 season, coach Al Mallanda's JVs' have now won 14 straight games.

Your Horoscope

Thursday, November 15

GENERAL TENDENCIES: There are many changes you would like to make now concerning a new project. It is wise if you make a point to carefully study every detail to avoid making any mistakes. You can easily make progressive gains.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have excellent ideas of a creative nature but make sure you handle credit affairs carefully. Show gratitude to loyal friends.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You now understand the situation at home very well and can do something constructive about it. Buying new appliances will be appreciated.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Engage in important policy matters with associates. Actual details can be handled later on. Contact business expert for advice.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Making plans where the monetary side of life is concerned is wise. Meet with trusted advisers and gain their good ideas.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A good day to show the generous side of your nature and forget about pinching pennies. Make sure your diet is good. Take health treatments.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Contacting bigwigs who can give you backing you need is wise. Do something helpful for those in trouble. Show that you have wisdom.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Discuss your plans with experts. Keep the conversation light if you go out socially. Make long-range plans for the future tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 2) Use your finest talents to further your career and make big headway right now. Take no chances with one who opposes you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Use new ideas you have and can advance more quickly. Listen to inspirational talk of one who is influential. Watch diet.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You know exactly what is expected by those to whom you have made promises, so follow through in a most conscientious manner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Engage in policy matters of importance with associates and make your relations more meaningful. Listen carefully to what is discussed.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make your home more charming so that you impress others. Buy new apparel and improve your appearance. Become a happier person.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those lovers of adulation, so it would be well to direct the education along theatrical lines or whatever else will help your progeny please the public. There could be real fame in this chart. Start saving now so you can give as fine an education as you can afford.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

KISSING: (Q.) Please tell me how to kiss. I mean, what do the lips do? Is the mouth open or closed? Eyes? What position do the lips head in? How should I hold the girl?

I am 16, a boy, and have never been on a date and never kissed a girl.—No Experience in Alabama.

(A.) Try not to be so tense about it. Kissing is not something you do like putting a car together on an assembly line. It is not precise. It varies.

You kiss a girl when you feel like it and when you think she might feel like it. You can kiss with eyes closed or open, depending upon your mood. Your lips can just touch the girl's, or they can press. The mouth can be closed or open. It depends upon the girl, the time and the feeling.

CRUSH: (Q.) I have this problem with this boy down the street. He has a crush on me. I think he is nice but I just don't like the idea of him as a boyfriend.

I have heard from his friends that his feelings get hurt easily. I don't want to hurt his feelings. What should I do?—Pursued in Pennsylvania.

(A.) You'll hurt his feelings less if you'll be honest with him about your feelings.

(Jean Adams reads and considers every letter, but she regrets that she cannot answer each personally. Mail your questions or comments to Jean Adams, care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001.)

Roger Trezel and Pierre Jais of France are one of the great partnerships. Unlike most expert pairs they do use psychics. This hand was played in a 1958 match between England and France.

Jais who sat East decided that desperate measures were called for after Trezel passed as dealer and North opened the bidding. Hence, his one spade overcall.

South doubled and Jais ran out to one notrump. If South had elected to double again Jais would have had to show his heart suit, such as it was but South bid two notrump.

From that point on North and South climbed to six spades on fairly reasonable bidding. There was only one fly in their ointment. Trezel opened the queen of hearts. Jais returned the suit to force dummy to ruff whereupon South took the wrong view in spades and wound up one trick short.

North was in six diamonds at one time. That contract would wheel in without a finesse as would six clubs. It appeared as if the Jais psychic had really paid off.

It didn't. At the other table East passed after North opened one club. South bid a spade; North two clubs; South three diamonds; North four spades; South four notrump; North five diamonds and South six spades. The same queen of hearts was led; the same unfortunate play in spades and the same result, so all the psychic got was a stand-off.

Nixon and GOP in Face-to-Face Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For many months President Nixon and Republicans in Congress have talked at each other about Watergate, through public statements. Now they have begun talking to each other face-to-face, and it has already caused some sparks.

Fifteen Republican Senators got to tell Nixon directly what they thought about Watergate at a two-hour and 15-minute White House meeting late Tuesday. Several told him a definitive accounting to the American public is essential to his presidency.

One, Sen. Edward W. Brooke, Mass., told him to his face he should resign. Nixon declined.

The session was the first of six Nixon has scheduled with Republicans in the House and Senate. More meet with him today, and by Friday he expects to have talked with all 234 Republicans in Congress.

"It was one of the most phenominal and stark sessions a senator could have with the President of the United States," said Sen. Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky.

Sen. James L. Buckley, R-N.Y., said he "had the opportunity of telling the President directly that the critical fact with which he must cope is not to satisfy a court, but to satisfy a skeptical public."

"I hope the President will be able to meet the burden of proof, which clearly is still his," Buckley said.

Another senator, who declined to be named, said was "a very tough meeting for the President to go through. There were loud exchanges. He still has to go further, but he knows the next step is still his."

Sen. Brooke told newsmen: "I suggested a resignation. Others opposed resignation. Others said he should come before the Watergate committee." Brooke's state was the only one in 1972 to vote for George McGovern for president, and Brooke had publicly called for Nixon's resignation last weekend.

He said Nixon was "very gracious" in rejecting that proposal at the meeting. Brooke added: "Nothing was said tonight that would change my opinion."

Two members of the Senate Watergate committee, which has twice asked for its own meeting with Nixon, with no response, were present. Committee Vice Chairman Howard Baker, Tenn., felt he got little new information. "I don't really think we got very far into the factual situation," Baker said.

The other committee member, Sen. Edward J. Gurney, Fla., said the senators "had a lot of input" during the session. "He needed to realize the gravity of the situation," Gurney said. "There was a lengthy discussion on the means to improve his credibility. The President took it well."

In other developments:

—The White House said its chief of staff Alexander M. Haig has not listened to any Watergate tapes. Sources earlier had quoted Haig as saying one tape showed Nixon expressed surprise when he heard about Watergate from John Dean.

—Ashland Oil, Inc., was accused in federal court of making an illegal corporate contribution of $100,000 to the Nixon campaign, and the Watergate committee called its president, Orin E. Atkins, to testify.

Campaign Contributions...Probe Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee is trying to find out who applied what pressure to corporations that illegally contributed to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

The heads of three big firms that pleaded guilty to giving corporate funds to Nixon's campaign go before the panel in public hearings today. They are Orin E. Atkins, president of Ashland Oil Co.; Russell DeYoung, board chairman of Goodyear Tire & Rubber; and Harding L. Lawrence, chairman of Braniff Airways.

Attorneys for Lawrence told a federal judge this week that Braniff's $40,000 contribution was made under pressure, without specifying the source or nature of the pressure.

Gulf Oil Corp., which pleaded guilty Tuesday to illegally giving $100,000 to the Nixon campaign, has said "the pressure was intense, and at the time it was thought to be irresistable by our Washington representative."

Gulf's Washington representative, government affairs vice president Claude C. Wild Jr., is scheduled to testify Thursday.

Ashland, which contributed $100,000 to the campaign, and Gulf were fined the maximum $5,000 Tuesday after they pleaded guilty in separate federal court cases to making illegal political contributions.

Gulf admitted it also gave $15,000 to Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., and $10,000 to Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., in their respective Democratic presidential bids. Both men said they were unaware their campaigns had received corporate funds and offered to return the money.

Watergate committee Vice Chairman Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., who received $5,000 from Wild for his senatorial race, said he had been assured the money did not come from Gulf, but would take another look at the matter.

Wild, who pleaded guilty to making an illegal corporate contribution to the Nixon effort, and Atkins, who pleaded no contest, were fined the maximum $1,000 each but were spared possible one-year prison terms. Their firms came forward voluntarily in response to an announcement by then-special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox that guilty officials who failed to cooperate might go to jail.

That prospect loomed Tuesday when two employes of American Ship Building Co. testified they took part in a conspiracy to cover up their firm's corporate contributions to the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President.

The company's secretary, Robert E. Bartlome, told the Senate panel that chairman George M. Steinbrenner III ordered him to set up an employe bonus system for eight employes whose bonuses actually were turned over to political campaigns.

When the FBI launched an investigation, Bartlome said, Steinbrenner made up a false story for the employes to tell the FBI, produced false records to cover up the scheme and reportedly destroyed the actual records of the illegal transactions.

Matthew E. Clark Jr., a $16,300-a-year purchasing director of the company's Amship division, said he was among those who got a $5,000 bonus on April 6, 1972, and gave up all that remained after taxes.

Krogh's Attorney Debates With Judge

WASHINGTON (AP) — A skeptical federal judge and a lawyer for Egil Krogh Jr., debated Tuesday whether it's all right to lie under oath if the President of the United States said to do it.

U.S. District Court Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said it wasn't. Attorney Stephen N. Shulman argued with him. Krogh, boss of the White House "plumbers," sat silently.

The forum was a hearing on motion by the former presidential aide for dismissal of an indictment charging two counts of making false declarations under oath.

Krogh claims national security prohibited him from telling the truth when questioned in an Aug. 28, 1972, deposition for the grand jury about trips E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy made to California in advance of the break-in at the office of Dr. Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, which they supervised.

"He had all kinds of options other than to lie," said Gesell.

The 33-year-old former assistant to John D. Ehrlichman, claims he is immune from prosecution because when he gave the deposition he was a federal officer and acting within the scope in his employment.

The judge reserved a ruling on the dismissal motion and two others asking for a change in the place of trial and for production of White House tapes.

He said Krogh could have told the U.S. attorney interrogating him that he could not answer questions of national security.

Krogh was permitted to give a deposition in the Department of Justice rather than appear in person before the grand jury.

"He didn't have to go there," the judge said. "He could have run to some higher officials in the White House and said 'protect me from these people who are trying to get into national security!' Why did he go?"

Said Shulman: "He went because he was informed arrangements had been made. He was not supposed to be asked questions into national security. He was going there anticipating he was not going to be asked about the subject."

The white-haired judge pointed out that only the U.S. attorney was there, "an officer of the United States government, of this administration. All he had to say is: 'The President of the United States has told me I will not be asked about this.' "
